CARGO OF LIQUOR; CREW GOT RUN ON

EXCITING VOYAGE OF BRITISH VESSEL TO VICTORIA.

Collision, Storms, Sailors Drunk and Refusing to Man Ship, Among the Experiences.

Victoria, B. C., Oct. 25.—The British bark Don, which arrived after a belated passage from Glasgow, with a general cargo, including shipments of liquors and explosives, rifles and cement, had an exciting voyage. The vessel was in collision with a French ship in the Irish channel soon after starting and put back to Plymouth for repairs, then a call was made at Montevideo to land Captain Jeffreys, who was ill. From there the mate, Captain Roach, took charge. Off Cape Horn, where heavy weather was encountered and the vessel was hove to under storm sails, the crew broke into the shipment of liquor and all hands became intoxicated. They refused to work the ship, which lay helpless, threatening to drive ashore on Horn island. A change of wind alone saved her. From that time on, there was more or less liquor abstracted from the cargo and more intoxication and fighting, until finally the Captain got control by threatening to use firearms and managed to make port without any further serious trouble.

OPERATORS DEMAND HALF A MILLION PAY

ILLINOIS MINERS TOOK HOLIDAY DESPITE AGREEMENT.

May Cost 55,000 Miners $10 Each for Celebrating Virdin Murder Anniversary.

Chicago, Oct. 25.—The executive boards of the Illinois Coal Operators' association and of the coal miners' union met here today to adjust certain differences that have arisen between them. The chief matter slated for discussion is the fact that miners have been making a holiday on October 12, which is the anniversary of a riot at Verden, Ill., when a number of men were killed. The operators declare that this holiday is a direct violation of the agreement between the miners and the operators. Other matters to be taken up will be the closing down of some of the mines on other occasions, prices of coal and the discharges of men in the last year. It is believed by both sides that all differences will be amicably adjusted.

The operators presented to the miners a bill for $550,000 which they demanded should be paid on account of the holiday taken by the miners on the anniversary of the Virden riot. The demand of the operators is based on the agreement between the miners and operators which declares that holidays shall be taken only on certain specified dates and that the sum of $10 shall be paid by the union to the operators for every man who fails to work on other days. The assertion is made by operators that the taking of the holiday on October 12 was contrary to agreement and that they are entitled to the full amount against the 55,000 miners in the state. The arrangement regarding the holidays is, according to the operators, made necessary by the great number of foreigners among the miners who are constantly taking holidays other than those commonly recognized in this state.

DELEGATES DEBATE ON "CONVERSION"

LUTHERANS DISCUSS SYNODICAL DIFFERENCES.

Conference Between Contending Bodies at St. John's Church Will Close This Afternoon.

At the free intersynodical meeting which is being conducted at the St. John's Lutheran church the differences between the Ohio and Iowa synods on the one side and the Missouri synod on the other were again the subject of debates between the leading ministers of the various bodies represented.

The stumbling clock in the way of closer relations between the contending bodies is "conversion." One side in the conference maintains that human conduct plays no part in effecting the salvation of man—that the matter of salvation depends solely upon the foregone conclusion of God—while the other side declares that the acts of the individuals may prove a determining factor in the matter of conversion. The Ohio and Iowa synods affirm the importance of man's acts in the matter, while the Missouri synod denies the importance of human will.

The meeting will adjourn at 5:30 this evening and while a great deal has been accomplished in giving the contending bodies a clearer idea of the other's standing in the matter, the delegates believe that the present conference is in the nature of a preliminary endeavor for future work. It is probable that resolutions will be passed late this afternoon continuing the meetings in the near future at some other place. The present conference is the fifth held recently to discuss this important matter.

LODGE TO GIVE BANQUET.

Robinson, who went to Columbia City as a member of the Fort Wayne reception committee, delivered an address in his stead.

PICKPOCKETS AT RINK GATHERING

TWO PEOPLE ROBBED IN CROWD AT THE PRINCESS.

Attempt Was Made to Pick Third Man's Pockets But Thief Failed and Was Chased.

That a gang of pickpockets followed the Bryan train here yesterday is evidenced by the fact that Fred Fry, of Jefferson township, was robbed of a pocketbook containing $49 at Princess rink last night. Harry Boseker's diamond stud was nipped from his shirt front and an attempt was made to pick the pockets of a third man, but the thief failed and was given a chase.

Mr. Boseker made a thorough search for his diamond before the matter was made public, but failed to locate it. He has the spiral fastening, but the stone was gone and he accounts for its disappearance by the proximity of a man who was near him during the Bryan speech. The fellow held his hat in his hand, which was on Mr. Boseker's shoulder, and a confederate probably took the stone.

Fry had $44 of his own money and $5 that belonged to a friend, which was entrusted to him to make a purchase in the city. The name of the man who caught a thief with his hand on his pocketbook could not be ascertained. He saved his wallet, however, and as the thief backed out of the crowd he followed and gave chase, but lost his man on Pearl street and could not find him again, although a search was made.

The police did not give out any reports of the robberies, although Fry made a complaint to the department.

BRYAN WRITES TO STATE DEMOCRATS

REASON FOR HOPING

Individual Effort Will Count for More Than Speeches—Commoner Begins Ohio Tour.

Indianapolis, Oct. 25.—An open letter written by William Jennings Bryan to the democrats of Indiana was made public at headquarters of the democratic state committee this afternoon. It says.

To the democrats of Indiana: Not knowing until after the adjournment of the convention, of the resolutions passed complimentary to myself, I take this means of expressing my appreciation of the kindly sentiments expressed by the convention.

I accept the resolution, not as a tribute to myself, but as an evidence that the democratic party of Indiana favors the principles for which, with other democrats, I have been contending for the last ten years.

It affords me great gratification to find Indiana democracy preparing for a vigorous attack on the intrenchments of predatory wealth. Indications point to the success of the party two years hence, for events have vindicated the positions that we have taken, and the reform element of the republican party is now uttering the same warning that our speakers have for a decade.

The election this year is important, not only as an indication of the trend of sentiment, but because a democratic congress will enable us to send reform measures to the senate and either secure remedial legislation or expose the defense of the enemy. Let me urge, therefore, every democrat to go to the polls, as it is easier to bring a democrat to the polls than it is to convert a republican. Let the democrats organize and poll every democratic vote. If it is necessary to send for a voter, there ought to be enough enthusiastic democrats in every precinct to supply the necessary conveyances.

But we ought not to be content with polling the democratic vote; we have a right to expect a large increase in our vote from republicans who are now convinced of the necessity for the reforms which the democrats have been advocating.

Let every democrat pick out a republican and supply him with literature. Converts are made more by conversations between neighbors than by public speeches, and it is so easy to show how events have supported the democratic position that every democrat ought to be able to gain a recruit.

I note everywhere that the democrats are encouraged and hopeful. If they will only realize how important a bearing this election has on the election two years hence, I am sure that Indiana will render a good account of herself this year.

With grateful appreciation of the co-operation of the Indiana democrats, I am,

Very truly yours,
(Signed) W. J. Bryan.

BRYAN BEGINS OHIO TOUR.

Urges Election of Judge Who Sentenced Toledo Ice Trust Barons.

Montpelier, O., Oct. 25.—William Jennings Bryan began his campaign of speechmaking in Ohio here today. In his speech Mr. Bryan strongly endorsed Judge R. R. Kinkade, independent candidate for the common pleas bench at Toledo. Kinkade is the judge who heard the cases against the members of the so-called ice trust and sentenced them to the workhouse.

"We must have men on the bench," said Bryan, "who will enforce the laws. Judge Kinkade decided for the people and against the ice trust, therefore he should have the support of the people."

In national politics Judge Kinkade is a republican. In his endorsement of him Bryan spoke for a free judiciary.

Mr. Bryan came to Montpelier from Fort Wayne, Ind., where he had conferred with State Chairman Harvey C. Garber and Secretary W. L. Finley, of the Ohio democratic executive committee. Garber will be in charge of the tour for three days. Bryan's next speech, an appeal for an untrammeled judiciary, as at Montpelier, was made at Maumee.

CROWDS ATTEND BAZAAR.

The attendance at the bazaar given for the benefit of the Precious Blood church the past two evenings has been beyond expectations. Brossard and Mr. Venderly. Friday will be childrens' day at the bazaar and all children will be admitted free of charge and entertained by the ladies.

Benjamin F. Harper, accompanied by his wife, arrived in the city from Washington this morning and will spend several weeks here.

SOCIALISTS TRY TO SECURE WRIT

MAKE FIGHT TO GET CANDIDATES ON TICKET.

Action is Filed and Matter Taken Up for a Hearing—General Court News.

The question of placing the socialist congressional, legislative, county and township tickets on the ballot prepared for the election next month was taken up before Judge Walter Olds in the superior court this afternoon under mandate proceedings filed today by George W. Louttit.

On Monday afternoon the election board of the county decided that the legislative and Wayne township tickets were irregular and excluded the candidates from having their names on the ballots. There were a number of technical errors in the state and congressional tickets but they were passed.

Today's action was begun against the board, which consists of Judge John H. Aiken, Attorney Wilmer Leonard and County Clerk W. A. Johnson, on behalf of Oren C. McDonald and Charles L. Drake, demanding that the names of Charles H. Tweedy, for state senator, Cornelius H. Haenes, Charles L. Drake, and Henry H. Haines, for representatives, Milton D. Migrant and Ralph Cort, for justices of the peace in Wayne township, John C. Johnson and Hubert Habig, for constables and Emmet C. Martin, Bernard Rosen and Mathias Waumbauch, for members of the township advisory board, be placed upon the ballot.

When this was filed the board determined to allow a judge to pass on the entire socialist ticket and all will be submitted at the hearing of the cause. Judge Heaton is a candidate on the ticket and for that reason did not want to take the responsibility of deciding the case and some difficulty was experienced in securing a special judge for the hearing.

Court Notes.

Judge Joseph Adair, of Columbia City, was here today and assumed jurisdiction of two cases which he has been appointed to try in the circuit court.

A judgment was entered in the superior court giving the American Woodworking Machinery company, of Cleveland, possession of some machines sold to the Commercial Improvement company.

POPE'S CONDITION IMPROVES.

Swelling of His Foot Has Almost Disappeared.

Rome, Oct. 25.—Dr. Lapponi this morning found that the pope's condition had improved. The swelling of his foot had almost disappeared, the pains had ceased and his temperature was normal. He was therefore allowed to receive the British pilgrimage but instead of the audience occurring in the hall of the consistory as prearranged, and which would have made it necessary for the pontif to walk, it was held in the throne room. The pope was carried to the throne and the pilgrims filed before him and kissed his hand. Although the pontif was languid and pale, his general condition seems satisfactory.

CENSUS TAKING IS ON.

Visitation Committee Is Gathering Religious Information.

There has been much enthusiasm in the effort, and the army of visitors took up the work at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

LONG AND USEFUL CAREER IS ENDED

JOSEPH HARTER SUCCUMBS TO INFIRMITIES OF AGE.

Veteran Blacksmith Was Man of High Character and Long Active in Religious Work.

Joseph Harter, for more than half a century a resident of Fort Wayne, a veteran blacksmith, early local preacher and long active and devoted in religious work, died at 10 o'clock this morning at his home, 628 West Main street. He was a man of splendid character, widely known and universally esteemed.

Mr. Harter was 81 years of age in August last, and his death was due to the infirmities of age. He had been in failing health for more than a year, but it had only been within the past few weeks that his condition grew so critical as to occasion immediate alarm. He declined gradually until the end came peacefully this morning.

The deceased was a native of Starke county, Ohio, born near Canton, and grew to manhood there. He learned the trade of a blacksmith at Navarre, O., and in 1849 came to Fort Wayne, embarking in the blacksmithing business in a shop on Harrison street, near Main. Later he removed his shop to Main and Fulton streets, and still later erected the building at 628 West Main street, where he continued in business down to the time when encroaching feebleness compelled him to relinquish work.

Since early manhood Mr. Harter had taken a deep interest in religious work, and he lived the life of an earnest, devoted Christian who found abundant joy and happiness in his faith. He was one of the early members of Wayne Street Methodist Episcopal church, a class leader there in early days, and was also licensed as a local preacher. During the pioneer times Mr. Harter did much religious work through the country, holding services in the rural districts and became widely known for his efforts in this direction. In later years he became identified with the Free Methodist church, and was one of the most staunch supporters of the City Mission maintained by the Free Methodist church in a building owned by Mr. Harter on West Main street, near Broadway.

Mr. Harter was thrice married. The immediate family surviving includes the widow and one son, George M. Harter, of this city. There are also several brothers and sisters—Mrs. Elizabeth Kessler, of Robinson, Ill.; William Harter, of Hicksville, O.; Mrs. Sarah Weaver, residing on the Bluffton road; Mrs. L. R. Hartman, of this city; Alfred G. Harter, of this city, and Mrs. Mary C. Winch, of Winona Lake.

PROMISES, BUT DOES NOTHING.

Trouble in Morocco Is Not Ended As It Should Be.

Tangier, Morocco, Oct. 25.—Raisuli, the bandit chief, today replied to the message of Mohammed El Torres, the representative of the sultan, asking him to restore order in the district of Arzilla, saying that he had charged his brother with the task of restoring order there. Mohammed El Torres, in reply to the representations of the diplomatic corps, continues making promises, but does nothing.

A Spanish man of war has arrived here and has been placed at the disposal of the Spanish minister.

Serious news was received during the day from Morocco City. The French postal couriers are being systematically robbed while on their way between the Moroccan capital and this port, and the foreigners in Morocco City have written to the French legation stating that the French mails are no longer safe.

RAIL BOARD IS BUSY.

Holding Inquisition in Kentucky on Coal and Oil Land.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 25.—The Interstate commerce commission convened here today to investigate the alleged ownership by the railroads of Kentucky of certain coal and oil lands and also to inquire into a reported shortage of cars to haul the products of mines. A dozen witnesses are slated for examination, among them being W. W. Thompson, treasurer; J. H. Ellis, secretary and C. O. Bradford, real estate agent of the Louisville & Nashville railroad. Several western Kentucky coal operators will also be questioned.

Scott Ferguson.

In the middle division, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas and Ohio would be combined. The western division would be composed of Oregon and California.

BRYAN IS GIVEN A FINE OVATION

Two Great Fort Wayne Audiences Hear Democratic Leader.

TWO FINE ADDRESSES

Big Crowd at Princess Theater and at Court House—Other Speakers are Heard.

Two splendid audiences in Fort Wayne last evening, the first at Princess theater and another at an overflow gathering held in the rotunda of the court house, listened with rapt attention to a forceful discussion of the political issues by democracy's splendid leader, William Jennings Bryan. For the most part thoroughly in sympathy with the speaker, his audiences gave him a splendid ovation upon his appearance, again and again burst into vociferous applause as Mr. Bryan drove his telling points homeward, and mingled laughter with the applause at the application of some happy anecdote used to emphasize a step in the progress of his argument. It was in every way a notable occasion in the political annals of Fort Wayne, and even those in the audience not in political sympathy with Mr. Bryan paid him a full measure of tribute for his forcefulness, his sincerity and his masterful power as a thinker, an orator and a leader of a great political party.

It had been known that the theater would be wholly inadequate for the crowds which would desire to hear Mr. Bryan, and the overflow meeting down town had been arranged in consequence. The doors of the theater were thrown open shortly before 7 o'clock, and within a very few minutes every seat in the auditorium was occupied, while massed at the side and rear of the building were other hundreds who could not find seats, but who waited patiently the coming of the speaker and were amply repaid in the matchless eloquence of the gifted Nebraskan. Upon the stage were more than a hundred prominent democrats of the district

Mr. Hering Is Heard.

Mr. Bryan's special train arrived from the west shortly before 7 o'clock, and after his busy day Mr. Bryan took supper in his car and sought a few minutes for rest before he took up the work of the evening. While the audience was waiting his coming, Prof. Frank E. Hering, of South Bend, reached the theater and he was introduced to fill in the time until Mr. Bryan should arrive. A task of this sort is not an easy one, but Mr. Hering was equal to the emergency. He touched upon the issues in a general way and kept his audience alternately in laughter and applause until the arrival of Mr. Bryan.

Before the eloquent Nebraskan could be seen by the audience, the cheers of the crowd upon the outside of the building gave a hint of his coming. Mr. Hering ceased speaking, and a wave of intense expectancy swept over the waiting crowd. Mr. Bryan was driven to the stage entrance on the Fulton street side of the building, and the audience caught its first glimpse of him as he walked upon the stage preceded by Judge Allen Zollars, chairman of the evening, and accompanied by a dozen members of the reception committee.

Was Given An Ovation.

Instantly the great audience burst into applause, cheers, clapping of hands, calls of "Bryan!" "Bryan!" and waving of hats commingling in a splendid ovation to the distinguished guest. Mr. Bryan appears heavier and somewhat older than when he last appeared in Fort Wayne, but his face wore the same engaging smile and his manner was as engaging and as cordial as ever. He bowed his acknowledgment of the welcome and took a seat, but it was some time before the demonstration subsided sufficiently for Judge Zollars to present the speaker.

This he did very briefly. "I am to

DIES SUDDENLY WHILE AT WORK

EDWARD LANGAN DROPS DEAD AT ROLLING MILLS.

Laborer Was Stricken By Heart Disease and Expired Almost Instantly.

Edward Langan, a laborer, dropped dead while at work in the rolling mills shortly after 6 o'clock this morning, and Coroner Stults, who made an investigation of the case, ascertained that death was due to valvular affection of the heart.

Langan, who had long been a resident of Fort Wayne, was about 58 years of age, unmarried, and lived at a boarding house near the steel mills. He had been suffering from heart disease for some time, but when he arose shortly before 6 o'clock this morning replied in answer to a question that he was feeling better than for some time.

He went to the mills, began work at 6 o'clock and had been at his task only fifteen minutes when he was seen to gasp suddenly and sink to the floor. Other workmen hurried to his assistance, but death was almost instantaneous. The deceased is survived by two sisters—Mrs. George Bear, of this city, and Mrs. Lon Weaver, of Zanesville.

FALLS 400 FEET; NO BONE BROKEN

PENNSYLVANIA LAD PLUNGES DOWN MINE SHAFT.

Is Rescued Alive and Not Badly Hurt After All Hope Had Been Abandoned by His Friends.

Pittsville, Pa., Oct. 25.—Falling 400 feet down an abandoned mine shaft, Joseph Schroeder, of Pottsville, last evening was rescued alive, after he had been virtually buried all day and all hope of his rescue abandoned. When examined it was found Schroeder had not even a broken bone. It was the most extraordinary escape known in the history of anthracite mining.

Young Schroeder left town at 6:30 o'clock yesterday morning in company with William Kalbach, to shoot pheasants. While pushing their way through the brush toward the mountain top Schroeder took the lead. He walked into a drift, lighted a match, and called to Kalbach to follow. Suddenly he gave a cry of surprise and attempted to step back, but the ground at the edge of a hole gave way with him, and he plunged feet first down into an abyss.

Companion Goes for Help.

Kalbach hurried forward and he, too, almost plunged down the hole after his companion. Had he done so the mystery of their disappearance probably never would have been solved.

Seeing he could be of no aid to his unfortunate companion, Kalbach started down the mountain for Middleport on the run and in a short time a dozen men accompanied him back with long lengths of rope. They went as close as they poossibly could in safety and called down the shaft. Nothing but the echo of their voices greeted them. Then they tied a weight to the end of a rope and lowered it carefully into the black pit. It struck several times along the side of the jagged opening, but finally it was lowered to its full length, but the bottom had not been reached.

Men were sent back to town for more rope, and when they came back the attempt was again made, but again the end of the rope failed to reach bottom. Messengers were dispatched to the colleries at Kuska and Silver Creek, whence experienced mining men were sent by officials with a long coil of steel rope. This was lowered, and, although 200 feet of it was used, the bottom of the shaft could not be touched. Not a sound came from the black hole, except the rattling of the weighted rope.

Cries for Help Heard.

Again messengers were dispatched for more rope. The boy's father also arrived, accompanied by several employes of the shops. One of them, John Calloway, was lowered into the opening, and after going down 200 feet he heard cries for help.

Calloway was then hoisted to the surface, where he related his discovery, to the great joy of the boy's father. Calloway again went into the shaft, this time at the end of a rope more than 400 feet long. He found young Schroeder at the bottom of the pit and was drawn to the surface with him. Schroeder was terribly bruised and shaken, but no bones were broken and he will recover.

WOMAN CHEF FOR CLUB NOW.

Colony Club Follows London and Ousts Mere Man.

New York, Oct. 25.—Following the initiative just taken by the Marlborough, the exclusive woman's club of London, employing a woman to preside over its culinary affairs, the Colony club, New York's most fashionable woman's club, just building at the corner of Madison and Thirtieth streets, has decided to do likewise.

Announcement was made today that among the thirty employes it will require to conduct this club properly the principal consideration—namely, the chef—is a woman. Mrs. Naylor, for several years the celebrated chef of W. C. Whitney and later with one of London's most prominent families, has been engaged by the Colony club to fill this important place.

Mrs. Naylor's advant in New York club life will be a decided innovation when it is remembered that the Martha Washington hotel, which is decidedly prejudiced in favor of women employes, even to bell-girls, employs a man chef, as well as all women's clubs and lunchrooms which women patronize exclusively.

ACCUSED CHIEF RELEASED.

Salt Lake City, Utah., Oct. 25.—George A. Sheets, chief of the Salt Lake City police department, was released yesterday in the district court at the close of his preliminary examination under the charge of compounding a felony. Alexander and William McWhirter, Scotchmen, were robbed of $10,000 in this city. Chief Sheets secured the return of $1,000 of the money to the Scotchmen, but permitted the robber to leave the city and escape arrest. Judge Armstrong ruled that the evidence presented against Chief Sheets was insufficient.

See the display of $10 suits in Patterson's window. They will follow it with a window of $12 suits, then $15 and so on.

Chamber of Commerce Building.

The chamber of commerce building was situated at Park and Central streets, in the Riverview district of Kansas City. It was at a juncture of the elevated railways, two blocks west of the Kaw river and a mile southeast of what now is the business district of Kansas City, Kan. It was erected fourteen years ago at a cost of $85,000 to be used as a board of trade. The city grew away from it, however, and it was never used for its original purpose, but for many years had been occupied as an apartment house. The structure was four stories in height, with a deep basement and faced the two streets. It was built of brick and stone alone. It contained 100 rooms, almost all of which were, as far as can be learned, occupied by families or individual laboring men or railway employes at the time the fire started. The ground floor was occupied by W. A. Lovelace's barber shop, Edward T. Summers' drug store, Central Avenue Gas Fixture company, Mrs. Belle Wagner, restaurant; the Smither Overall laundry and the Labor Record.

Fire Started on Ground Floor.

The fire broke out on the ground floor from some unknown cause at 12:30 o'clock. Isolated as it was, the burning building was difficult of access, and it was some time before the fire department reached the scene. Several companies were at a fire in another part of the city.

When the firemen arrived the entire building was in flames. So quickly did the flames spread that in a few minutes after the fire was discovered all means of escape by stairways for the scores of occupants was shut off. On two sides of the building the elevated railway tracks hemmed it in and made still harder the work of the firemen. Then another obstacle arose. The firemen did not have sufficient ladders and many of those they had were too short to reach the upper stories. A stifling smoke filled the building, evidently coming from the burning stock of merchandise on the floor below and some of the occupants probably were never able to leave their rooms.

Frantic Women With Babes.

When the firemen arrived at the burning building they saw men hanging from window sills on the upper floors and frantic women with babies in their arms and children clinging to them leaning far out from the windows unable to find any means of escape and yet taking advantage of the little fresh air which the windows afforded. The firemen quickly ran their ladders up, but they did not reach above the third floor. Many persons were on the floor above. The firemen first devoted themselves to the people on the second and third floors and did not then heed the screams of the people above. Many of the persons in the interior of the building were already overcome by the dense smoke and had to be carried out by the firemen. But many were able to escape down the ladders without assistance. After getting every one they could find out of the second and third floors the firemen turned their attention to the people above.

Pitched Wives and Babies Out.

As the ladders did not reach above the third floor, the men on the fourth floor literally pitched their wives and children down to the firemen on the ladders and then jumped down themselves. Some of the more excitable ones jumped to the ground and were either killed or badly injured. Some whom the firemen tried to catch fell the entire distance to the ground.

Frank Diter, a mail clerk, jumped from the fourth floor and caught hold of a ladder two stories below, and although he saved himself, he broke all the fingers of both hands.

Jesse Ford, a laborer, carrying his wife in his arms, climbed out of a window of the fourth floor. He walked along a beam until he reached a point directly over a fireman's ladder and then dropped the woman to a fireman below. The fireman caught her and passed her safely to the ground. Ford then went back and got his nine months old baby and saved it in a like manner. He then jumped himself and was caught by a fireman.

Dropped Babe to Fireman.

H. G. Wilson was one of the first window of the fourth floor to get the attention of the firemen. He appeared at a window directly above a ladder and dropped his baby down to a fireman. Wilson then dropped his wife down and she was saved and he followed, escaping serious injury.

John Lynch grabbed the baby of John Sparks and jumped with it and with the child fell into the burning debris below. Both disappeared and were killed.

Another baby thrown from one of the upper windows was caught by a fireman uninjured.

The fire interrupted street car traffics of the elevated road and a motorman, whose car stood opposite the burning building said he saw five or six persons in the upper floors struggling frantically to escape and he is certain all of them succumbed to the smoke and toppled over into the ruins.

"NEGRO AVENGES SISTER."

"Black Samson, Dies at Stake, God's Lesson," Says Faville.

Oberlin, Ohio, Oct. 25.—"The crime the negro so often pays penalty for at the stake sometimes, it appears to me, is God's judgment against the white race for its treatment of the negro women. This blind black Samson pulling down the pillars of morality about him unto his death is to avenge the awful injustice and brutality against the wives, daughters and mothers of his race."

This declaration by Rev. John Faville, of Peoria, Ill., before the sixtieth annual meeting of the American Missionary association startled the convention at its opening session here.

"Woman, white and black, in her innocence and helplessness the victim of man, white and black, is one of the facts we face as a people and there is no remedy for either side but the Christian home. Into the making of such a home our association through teachers, so many of them women and of finest christian culture and character, has done its choicest work.

"There is not a national problem that is not embedded in our work, not one we are not now helping to solve. The American Missionary association is the best friend of the white south."

TROOPS WILL TAKE UTES.

Six Bodies of Cavalry to Charge Indians, Who Are Holding Dance.

Deadwood, S. D., Oct. 25.—Six troops of cavalry at Fort Meade have been ordered to proceed with all possible haste to Gillette, Wyo., to reinforce the troops from Fort Robinson, now in camp there, called out by the Utes' uprising. Seven troops of cavalry will then go out and make a strenuous effort to round up the Indians from Utah, who have been making serious trouble on the Little Powder river, near Gillette. The Indians are now moving north as fast as they can go.

The troops will be moved quickly and it is believed by the officers in command that they will be in sight of the Indians before the end of the week.

The Utes have persistently refused to obey the government's orders to return to their reservation. They are in a belligerant mood and well armed and it is predicted that the troops may be compelled to engage them in battle in order to accomplish the purpose of their expedition.

Captain Johnson, who is in command of the troops not at Gillette awaiting re-enforcements from the east, left early yesterday morning accompanied by an orderly and one scout to locate the Indian camp.

They struck the trail of the savages on the Little Powder river and came up with the Indians forty miles north of here.

The redskins were breaking camp, but waited for the officer to come up. Captain Johnson had a pow-wow with the chief and his followers. They again declared that they would not obey the order to go back to Utah, but intended to go to some point in the Dakotas.

They are holding war dances, continue to rob cattle and sheep camps and are growing very savage and daring. They rounded up a herd of 250 antelope, allowing only one to escape, and are committing depredations daily.

FINDS A DIME LOST 65 YEARS.

Millionaire Returns to Boyhood Home Recovers the Coin.

Attica, Ind., Oct. 25.—After an absence of sixty-five years, Frank Bookwalter, a millionaire of Springfield, Ohio, has returned to his old home in this county. One of his first acts was to recover a dime he lost when he was 5 years old, just before he went away.

The dime was given to him by his grandfather, and he was playing with it on the doorstep. He dropped it and it fell into a crack of the stone steps. It was though it could not be recovered without damaging the steps and no efforts to get it were made.

The boy's parents were poor when they moved to Ohio. The boy had his own way to make, and soon developed a love for mechanics. As a young man he produced some inventions that brought him wealth, and now he is several times a millionaire.

Last week he came back to his boyhood home. His business and his wealth had not made him forget the lost dime and as soon as he got to the old house he offered a man a dollar to get it. A crowbar was brought, the stone steps were lifted from their foundations and the dime was recovered. One side of it was black, but the other was untarnished.

Mr. Bookwalter said that the recovery of that dime gave him as much pleasure as the making of many thousands had done. The house is one of the landmarks of the county. It is stone and was built in 1833.

DUE TO WEATHER BUREAU.

Victory of American Balloon Due to Its Meterological Training.

(Pittsburg Dispatch.)

Notwithstanding an official campaign of education and Professor Willis Moore's assertion that the weather bureau falls down on only about 17 per cent. of its predictions, the popular idea that forecasting the weather is more or less a matter of guesswork and telegraphic advice is hard to dispel. It is therefore an imperative duty when the bureau accomplishes something by sheer force of scientific knowledge to blazon the fact on the outer walls in order that this erroneous and unjust impression may be dissipated.

What better demonstration of the applied science used by the weather bureau could there be than that afforded of the American balloon in the race of aeronauts at Paris? True, it was commanded by an Ohio man, Captain F. P. Lahm, of the Sixth cavalry, and the city of Canton, but not even the genius of Ohio for getting ahead can wholly account for his defeat of all rivals. Had it not been for Major Hersey, formerly of the weather bureau, the result might have been different.

As it was, the major, before ascending, hitched his trousers fore and aft sailor fashion and scanned the sky for squalls. His scientific training in the weather bureau told him that the heavier and faster air currents would be found in the lower strata and that their revolutions from left to right would carry the balloon to England. While the competing and unscientific foreigners were soaring in the upper strata searching for desirable winds Captain Lahm, following the major's weather - bureauwise instructions, stayed in the lower currents, reached England ahead of all others, landed farther north than any of his opponents and carried off the aeronautic championship.

After this demonstration of the scientific knowledge of the weather bureau who will be so unkind as to scoff because a mere fair and warmer prediction is followed by rain and cooler?

Fighting Keeper in Harlem So Badly Beaten He May Die.

New York, Oct. 25.—A daring attempt to liberate fifteen prisoners from Harlem jail was frustrated today, but not until one keeper had been so severely beaten that he may die, and another sustained a broken arm and serious bruises. Henry Curtin, a prisoner who had gained the confidence of the prison officials and had been permitted unusual liberties about the prison, is charged with being the leader of the outbreak and wiwth inflicting the injuries on the prison guards.

COCOON COLORS THE SILK.

Food Given to the Worms Does Away With Need of Dyes.

European newspapers have been discussing the results of the experiments made by M. Levrah in affeeting silkworms by coloring their food so that the cocoons could be made to yield colored silk, thus obviating the necessity of the dyer's work in giving hue to the silk in the thread or piece. In experimenting in this work the object was to discover if possible why some breeds of silkworms produce white silk while others produce yellow or a yellowish green silk. The experiments showed that the natural coloring matter of the cocoons was identical with the coloring matter found in the leaves. It was therefore logical to believe that the color of the silk must originate in the chlorophyl of the leaves fed to the worms.

Then the experiments which followed, undertaken to test this hypothesis, prove that a coloring matter introduced into the intestines of a worm by means of a food may under certain conditions reach the silk through the blood. The coloring matter possesses in a different degree the power to cross by osmosis the tissues of silkworms and each race of silkworms is characterized by the osmotic power of its tissues in relation to different coloring matters, permitting the passage of some to the exclusion of others.

CROKER CHAMPIONS TAMMANY.

Former Leader Declares It Is Most Democratic Institution in the World.

Dublin, Oct. 25.—In the course of an interview, published last evening in the Telegraph, Richard Croker, referring to Tammany Hall, said:

"It is a case of giving a dog a bad name. If any one connected with the organization, however insignificant his position, does anything dishonorable, Tammany is blamed.

"The reformers never did anything for New York," Mr. Croker continued. "The great bridges, the elevated railroad, the public buildings, and everything are the work of Tammany Hall. If there was corruption why did not the district attorney prosecute somebody?

"Tammany Hall has succeeded entirely on its merits. It is the most democratic institution in the world. If anything is wrong with it, then something is wrong with the people themselves. It stands not only for the poor man, but also for the foreignor newly landed on American shores. It believes, as against the republican party, that the foreigner should receive the benefits of the American constitution as soon as possible. It stands, all around, for equal rights."

Mr. Croker declared no Tammany officer would dream of influencing New York judges, who were as incorruptible as any. He challenged Mr. Choate to impeach their integrity. No bargains, he said, were made with the judges created by Tammany, which simply picked out the fittest lawyers in New York.

DUEL WITH ONE REVOLVER.

There was a duel in Edinburg recently between two Italians over a girl with whom both were smitten. It took place at midnight in the presence of a party of friends. The duelists had but one revolver and drew lots for the first shot. The winner shot at forty paces and missed. Then he walked up to his opponent and politely handed the pistol over. When the man had walked back to his station the second shot was fired, and also missed. So the two men rushed forward and embraced each other and the feud ended.

Priest of Dubuque Will Not Consent to Service at Veteran's Funeral.

Dubuque, Ia., Oct. 25.—The use of the G. A. R. ritual was forbidden yesterday by Rev. Father Murphy at the funeral of John Byrne, a civil war veteran, at St. Raphael's cathedral.

Father Murphy consented Tuesday, but yesterday notified the post he would be compelled to deny the request. The local post thereupon decided not to attend the services in a body.

Rector Carey, who has charge of the cathedral during the absence of Archbishop Keane, is now on a confirmation tour, and could not be reached.

It is the first time in the history of the local cathedral that a patriotic order was denied the right to use its service book in a funeral ceremony. A committee will visit the archbishop on his return and ascertain if this policy is to be continued.

JUROR'S WINK NOT AN ERROR.

Indiana Supreme Court Decides That to Flash an Optic Is Not Misconduct in Murder Trial.

Indianapolis, Oct. 25.—By a decision of the supreme court yesterday the fact that a juror winks at the prosecuting witness in a murder trial is not a ground for setting aside the verdict when the murderer is convicted.

Frank Trombley killed Sherman Hilbert in Sullivan county and was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment. He appealed the case on the ground that when the half brother of the murdered man was on the stand one of the jurors winked at him.

The supreme court held that this was not such misconduct on the part of a juror as would be prejudicial to the defendant's rights and refused to set aside the verdict.

BRANDS CRITIC AS TRAITOR.

John Mitchell Scorches Man Who Accuses Him of Dishonesty.

Terre Haute, Ind., Oct. 25.—Replying to charges that the officials of District No. 11, United Mineworkers of America, had not acted in the interests of the organization National President John Mitchell, in the special convention yesterday accused the dissenters of an effort to disrupt the union.

The denunciation was precipitated by Delegate T. C. Llewellyn, of Linton, who criticised the decision of the national officer of the miners' union in the top coal question, and by inference declared that the national officers, including President Mitchell, were not above suspicion.

The words were not out of the speaker's mouth before President Mitchell was on his feet. He had been sitting at one side of the hall as a spectator.

President Mitchell said that Llewellyn had been the recipient of credentials of the Industrial Workers of the World, and possessed them at this time. Mitchell said that Llewellyn was allied with the Western Federation, and as its ally was doing all in his power to break the supremacy of the United Mineworkers in the Indiana field.

The denunciation of President Mitchell created a sensation. When he finished he was cheered to the echo.

CUBAN GUNS THROWN INTO SEA.

Thousands Surrendered by Rebels Put Where They Won't Hurt Anybody.

Havana, Oct. 25.—The statement made by Secretary of War Taft on the eve of his departure from Cuba that he would put all the arms surrendered by the insurgents where they would do no further harm was verified yesterday when a company of the Cuban artillery spent the afternoon throwing these weapons into the sea from the outer bastion of Morro castle. Thousands of rifles and carbines were sunk in thirty fathoms of water.

The goblets evidently were stolen at the reception given Tuesday night on board the warship. The Denver sailed this morning.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

LESSON IV, FOURTH QUARTER, INTERNATIONAL SERIES, OCT. 28.

Text of the Lesson, Matt. xxvi, 6-16. Memory Verses, 12, 13—Golden Text, Matt. xxvi, 10—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

[Copyright, 1906, by American Press Association.]

Our lesson for today takes us back several days in the order of the events, for John tells us that the supper and the anointing at Bethany were six days before the Passover (John xii, 1), and the Passover is the lesson for next week. Both Matthew and Mark tell us that this anointing took place in the house of Simon the leper, and if we cannot tell whether this Simon was one of the lepers whose healing we have an account of in the gospels or whether he was the father of this family or the husband of Martha, and whether he was at this time living or not, we can wait till we see Martha and Mary and Lazarus, and they will tell us all we need to know. They made Him (Jesus) a supper (John xii, 2), and He tells us that if we will open the door to Him He will come in and sup with us at any time. Martha served, but she does not now seem to be cumbered as on a former occasion (Luke x, 40). Serving meekly, cheerfully and easily is truly Christlike, for when at the Passover there was a strife among the disciples as to who should be the greatest Jesus said, "I am among you as He that serveth" (Luke xxii, 24-27), and He had that same evening illustrated it by washing their feet and wiping them with the towel wherewith He was girded.

While at the table Mary took an alabaster box of ointment of spikenard, very precious, and broke the box and poured the ointment on His head as He sat at meat and anointed His feet and wiped His feet with her hair, and the house was filled with the odor of the ointment (verse 7; Mark xiv, 3; John xii, 3). This was worship, whole hearted devotion, true and costly. Some one has said that in Martha's service, Mary's worship and the risen life of Lazarus we have a picture of a fully rounded Christian life such as a true believer should live.

The beautiful scene is marred by the indignation of the disciples and especially of Judas Iscariot, the treasurer of the little company, who was a thief and longed to have the money which the ointment would bring if sold in the bag for his own use. It seems that every holy scene and holy thing is marred by some wretched display of self in some form or other. If we would manifest the life of Jesus in these mortal bodies we must be ever denying the self life and reckoning it crucified with Him (II Cor. iv, 11; Matt. xvi, 24).

How comforting to Mary must have been the words of Jesus: "Why trouble ye the woman? Let her alone. She hath wrought a good work upon Me." What a comfort these words should be to many an earnest worker seeking only to please Him, but frowned upon by the powers that be, church dignitaries or officials, who know not the Lord, or if they do know Him as their Saviour from the wrath to come they live more unto self than unto Him and seek not His approval. How often I have been helped by these lines:

"Men may misjudge thy aim, think they have cause for blame, say thou art wrong. Hold on thy quiet way. Christ is the Judge, not they. Fear not. Be strong."

How beautiful His commendation, "She hath done what she could" (Mark xiv, 8). He gives us the ability and only asks that we so minister (I Pet. iv, 10, 11), doing as our hand finds, but doing it with all our might (I Sam. x, 7, margin; Eccl. ix, 10). But, oh, how few do what they can! The majority of those who call themselves Christians seem to do as little as they can instead of as much as they can. Here are some suggestive lines: "The restless millions wait the light whose dawning maketh all things new. Christ also waits, but men are slow and late. Have we done what we could? Have I? Have you?" He who reads the heart saw a motive and a purpose in this act of Mary's which other eyes saw not and other hearts did not even think of. "She did it for my burial." "She is come aforehand to anoint my body to the burying." "Against the day of my burying hath she kept this" (verse 12; Mark xiv, 8; John xii, 7). Even Peter and John did not seem to believe that He would die and be buried, although He had repeatedly said it so plainly, and as to His rising again the record says that they knew nothing of it (John xx, 9). But this woman who sat at His feet and heard His word (Luke x, 39)—that is, heard it and received it meekly and laid it to heart—she understood that cruel hands would take Him and kill Him and that neither she nor others would be able then to minister to Him. So she had obtained this costly ointment and kept it and watched for the opportunity which He now had put within her reach so graciously and which she so quickly seized.

If we had the anointed eyes and ears and the whole hearted devotion of Mary of Bethany how we would buy up the opportunities which He of II Chron. xvi, 9, would be sure to put in our way! The other women who bought spices after He died to anoint His body when the Sabbath should be past may have loved Him as much as Mary did, but they were lacking in faith. They did not simply believe what He said. "Without faith it is impossible to please Him" (Heb. xi, 6). What a worldwide memorial Mary unconsciously made for herself that day! The odor of that ointment not only filled that house, but is felt wherever the gospel is proclaimed. May His love so constrain us that our all shall be always His.

PILES

Suffered for 23 Years—Tried Everything Without Avail—"Pyramids" Doing the Work.

A Trial Package Mailed Free to All.

The rectum, like the mouth, is lined with that soft, satiny material known as mucous membrane. Piles is a disease of that membrane and the blood vessels that lie under it.

Fissure and Fistula affect the same membrane and belong to the same family. Pyramid Pile Cure slipped into the bowel, melt and spread themselves over the diseased and painful surface and act just as a salve would if the trouble was on the outside of the body and could be easily seen and gotten at.

The immediate relief they give even in the most agonizing cases will startle you, as it has already startled many thousands of "doubting Thomases" before you, who have tried everything and sent for the sample package, firmly convinced that they would again be disappointed.

But they weren't. Pyramid Pile Cure don't disappoint. They cure. They are for sale at all druggists at 50 cents a box and are worth an even hundred to the person who needs them.

"This is to certify that I have used three 50c boxes of Pyramid Pile Cure and it has benefited me more than any othed pile remedy I have ever used. I used the sample which you sent me, together with the three 50c boxes, and I am so much better, but not entirely cured, as my case is one of twenty-three years' standing. I did not expect to be cured all at once. I had almost lost all hope of ever getting any remedy that would help me until I tried Pyramid Pile Cure. I believe they will entirely cure me if I continue their use, which I intend doing so long as I can get the money to pay for them. I do not think any one ever suffered very much more than I have at times. Then I would be so nervous I could not get any ease in any position I could place myself.

I cannot express my gratitude for the good your medicine has done me. I will continue to tell my friends of their merit. Yours, Emma Bodenhamer, Bedford, Ind."

Or if you want to prove this matter at our expense, before purchasing, send your name and address to the Pyramid Drug Co., 56 Pyramid Building, Marshall, Michigan, and receive a trial package free by return mail.

BRIDGE COMPANY FIGHTING.

Alleged Member of Ohio Trust Wants a New Trial.

Bellefontaine, O., Oct. 25.—The Variety Iron works of Cleveland, one of the bridge companies ousted from Ohio for violating the anti-trust laws, has filed a motion in circuit court asking a new trial, claiming there was a misjoinder of defendants by the attorney general in his quo warranto suit against the bridge trust. If a new trial is denied they will go to the supreme court on error.

Attorney Clevenger, of Cleveland, representing the company, yesterday secured the removal of the trustees appointed by the court to wind up the business of the company and had E. S. Cook, F. S. McGowan and R. A. Manning appointed as trustees.

FORMER GAMBLER AS ART DEALER

PAT SHEEDY WILL BE PURVEYOR TO AESTHETES.

Will Open Picture Store in New York for Goods Concerning Which No Questions Go.

New York, Oct. 25.—Patrick F. Sheedy, long of Chicago, who makes no pretense of loving "art for art's sake," is about to realize the dream of a lifetime by opening at 161 West Twenty-fourth street a picture gallery. One of the attractions of his gallery will be an assemblage of old and modern paintings collected by "Jack" Carr, who recently passed from this life at Copenhagen.

These works of art were supposed to have been acquired by their owner in an entirely informal manner. Many were picked up here and there at cut rate prices, like the Meyer von Bremen recently offered in this city, or quietly selected from private collections. There are a hundred or so of them, and the last one was obtained twenty-eight years ago, according to Sheedy. They, however, have been kept from the public so long that questions of titles are not likely to be raised. The fact that such an artistic treasure trove existed in Europe was pointed out several weeks ago in a cable dispatch from Paris.

Arranges for Sale.

Sheedy has been in communication with the present owners and when they deliver the paintings in New York he will be able to make satisfactory arrangements for their disposition.

These canvases will not constitute the entire stock, for the famous painting which the noted amateur, who has now become a professional, acquired from Raisuli, the bandit, will also be on view. Two hundred other art works, some of them from the brushes of old masters and a few now innocent of varnish, will be displayed.

"Men change their opinions," said Sheedy, "but not their principles. I am no reformer and I do not have to proclaim my honesty. I am still Pat Sheedy, and I would be the same if I were minister of the gospel. I've gone through life looking for the good in what might be termed bad people, and not looking for the bad in what might be termed the good people.

"Anybody can buy a picture from me with impunity, and no one will get arrested for doing so. I'm not one of those dealers who will say, 'It's all right, but don't say you got it from me.' I have been preparing for this business now about twenty years, and I will have something here well worth looking at.

Has Works of Masters.

"I will show Troyon and Corot. I will display some of the best pictures of Ziem and of Henner and of both Duprees. I have just bought from Scalbert ten of his best examples. I have two paintings by Bougereau, and for the works of Vibert just call on me. Two of the best paintings of Rosa Bonheur are to be seen in my gallery.

"Many of the nouveau riche have plenty of money to spend, but, having no training in art, they do not know how to do it. For the benefit of the unitiated I have gathered some small collections which will be placed in rooms so that they may be studied with reference to the furnishings. One who sees pictures in such circumstances will be able to tell at a glance whether of not the works will harmonize with white or gold interiors. If they don't, they can see the effect in some other color."

It was through the mediation of Sheedy that the famous Gainsborough of the Duchess of Devonshire, which was stolen, was recovered in Chicago and returned to its owner.

DON'T BE IMPOSED UPON.

Foley & Co., Chicago, originated Honey and Tar as a throat and lung remedy, and on account of the great merit and popularity of Foley's Honey and Tar many imitations are offered for the genuine. These worthless imitations have similar sounding names. Beware of them. The genuine Foley's Honey and Tar is in a yellow package. Ask for it and refuse any substitute. It is the best remedy for coughs and colds. Dreier & Bro.

The non-vegetarian citizen will rejoice in the knowledge that the chicken population of the United States in 1900 was 230,000,000, and at present approaches 300,000,000. Turkeys numbered more than 600,000, ducks more than 5,000,000 and geese as many, though that seems an underestimate for geese, everything considered. The yearly consumption of chickens is more than 300,000,000, though not a few, it appears, are carried over from year to year indefinitely in cold storage for the ultimate benefit of the hapless boarder.

The oldest clergyman in England who still is to be heard from the pulpit is Rev. Thomas Lord, the dean of the English Congregational ministers. At 99 he has been making a little tour of Northamptonshire, where he spent his early life, and it is interesting to note that he preached in one day two sermons in a little church of which he had been pastor seventy years ago.

Edison has invented an electric storage battery that will furnish power so cheap that every man can afford his horseless carriage. This is about the 'steenth time Mr. Thomas Alva E. has taken the public by surprise with this announcement and since he fixes the time of realization at six months hence we'll wait with patience. But when time's up we want him to understand we're a Missouri constituent.

United States Senator Pettus, of Alabama, who is 86 years of age, when asked what vocation he would choose if he were again beginning active life replied: "The high calling of a farmer. I would purchase a nicely located farm and settle down to farming as my lifework, thus guaranteeing to my loved ones and myself the highest and happiest of hours, with a full crib, a full smokehouse and a full measure of usefulness."

According to the Paris correspondent of the London Times a telegram from Bordeaux states that the editor of the Nouvelliste de Bordeaux, having received a legal summons to reprint the verdict of the court of cassation by way of reply to an article describing Major Dreyfus as a traitor, has published a note in that paper stating that he ignores that decision, that he regards Major Dreyfus as a traitor and challenges that officer to prosecute him before the assize court.

The extreme poverty and the low standard of living of peasants from whom the agricultural laborers are recruited assure a low level of wages for agricultural labor. The average wages will appear almost incredibly low from an American point of view, notwithstanding the general complaints of the estate holders concerning the unreasonable demands of the laborers. According to an official investigation embracing the decade of 1882-1891, the average annual wages for a male agricultural worker in Russia were less than $32 and for a female worker less than $18. To this must be added the cost of subsistence, which is equally low, being on an average $24 for a male and $22 for a female worker for a whole year; so that the average cost of employing a laborer for the entire year is equal to only $55 for the male andd $40 for the female. The wages for the summer season of five months are almost equal to the annual wages, being $22 for the male and $13 for the female laborer.

RE-ELECT JUDGE O'ROURKE.

We believe a majority of the voters of Allen county will express agreement with us that Judge Edward O'Rourke, of the circuit bench, should be re-elected. There is no reason why Judge O'Rourke should not be re-elected. He has served the people of Allen county long and faithfully with diligent effort, with splendid ability, with that high probity found only in singularly upright characters like his. The only argument presented for the defeat of Judge O'Rourke is that he has been on the circuit bench a good while. Jurists like him ought to be on the bench a good while. Judge O'Rourke would not have been on the Allen circuit bench had not the people of the county entire faith in his honesty and uprightness as a man, his great capacities as a lawyer, his fitness of character and temperament for the exacting duties of a judicial office, his courage and his love of justice. The very best proof there can be that Judge O'Rourke ought to stay on the bench from which he has served the people with such signal usefulness is that in his long term of service there never has developed any reason why he should be retired.

He is in the prime of intellectual vigor. His physical capacities are splendidly preserved. His experience, profound learning and natural benevolence of heart equip him as few men are equipped for service on the bench. Judge O'Rourke has honored the ermine by keeping it clean and he should be re-elected.

THOMAS BESTS FITZPATRICK.

Welterweight Champion Knocks Out Chicago Man.

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 25.—Joe Thomas, champion welterweight of the world, knocked out Dick Fitzpatrick, of Chicago, in the sixteenth round of a scheduled thirty round contest last night at Colma. Thomas had the class all the way and did all the work. The end came shortly after the opening of the sixteenth round, when Thomas landed a hard left to the jaw, staggering Fitzpatrick. The champion shot over the right swing putting his man to the floor for nine seconds. When Fitzpatrick rose, he received another of the same class that put him out.

Fitzpatrick showed that he is a clever blocker of blows, but he was unable to punch. Once in the eleventh round he landed a right swing on Thomas' head that staggered the local man for a moment. Again in the thirteenth, Fitzpatrick put over a right and left over hand swing, but outside of those two rounds, he did not land a telling punch on Thomas.

Says Man Wed Under His Name.

Peter F. McCool

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 25.—Peter F. McCool, a wealthy Butler oil man, whom a woman known in Pittsburg as Mrs. Frank Walker, is suing for desertion and non-support, alleging she is married to him, believes he is being made the victim of a most extraordinary conspiracy. He has a wife and family in Butler and denies that he married Mrs. Walker. His defense will be an alibi. He proposes showing that he was in Butler on the day when Mrs. Walker says the ceremony was performed.

According to McCool's story, he is the central figure in a tale that might easily take rank with the efforts of the most sensationalist novelist. It is his opinion that Mrs. Walker married a man who assumed the name of Peter F. McCool and signed the Butler man's name to the marriage certificate.

Mrs. Walker asserts that she was married to McCool in New York on June 19, 1904. She says that the ceremony was performed at the home of her sister, Mrs. B. Scott, of No. 261 West Forty-second street.

McCool is confident he will have no difficulty in proving an alibi. He says he will show by the records of a Butler bank that he made personal deposits on June 18 and 29, 1904. These dates, he says, respectively were Saturday and Monday and the day preceding and following the alleged marriage.

McCool says he also has plenty of witnesses to prove that he was in Butner on the Sunday on which he is alleged to have been married in New York.

McCool and John Greer, an attorney, of Butler, went to New York last week and learned that a man giving his name as Peter F. McCool, and Mrs. Frank Walker had been married in New York on the day mentioned. Three marriage certificates were issued, and upon seeing the certificate McCool promptly declared that his signature was a forgery. Neither the officiating clergyman nor the two witnesses, it is said, could identify McCool.

Fort Wayne is one of the most musical cities in the west. The numerous grand concerts that have been given for the Michigan sufferers, the Garfield monument and hospital funds have been grand successes both musically and financially.

Hon. R. C. Bell, Joe Clark, Willis Hattersley and Col. Will Reynolds returned from a fishing expedition at Cedar Beach yesterday, and last evening the above gentlemen assembled at the residence of Mr. Bell, where a delicious repast was served.

Since the new law went into effect there has scarcely been a person brought before the mayor for disorderly conduct. They have all been converted into square, unadulterated drunks, because there is a fee of $1 for every arrest made for state offenses, of which drunkenness is one and disorderly conduct is not. The Packard PIANO

FALL DISPLAY OF PIANOS

Worthy of a visit of inspection by everyone interested in the subject.

THE MASTER GRAND

An exquisite small Packard Grand; unapproached for tone or charming case design. In artistically furnished homes this piano is replacing the upright models.

PACKARD PIANO

The 1907 models of these beautiful instruments contain the handsomest cases we have ever shown. Many designs and styles a full year ahead of those to be seen elsewhere.

Packard tone is the STANDARD for comparison.

STERLING PIANOS

have gained their place at the pinnacle of piano popularity by their own merits. Their sweet, singing tone, grand volume, easy action and artistic appearance receive the highest praise and admiration of all musical critics.

HUNTINGTON PIANOS

The tone and durability of this piano is usually found only in pianos selling at $50 and $75 higher. A favorite with conservatories and music schools.

PIANOLA PIANOS

The only piano containing the genuine Pianola.

There is no musical instrument that has aroused so much curiosity and enthusiasm as the Pianola Piano.

It is almost an imperative duty for persons desiring to keep up with times to see and hear this new piano—the piano that anyone can play.

THE METROSTYLE PIANOLA

The world's standard piano player, today regarded as much of an essential in modern homes as the piano itself.

A SQUARE DEAL

for all in the purchase of pianos. Our business has been built up from a small beginning to its present proportions on the foundation of giving everybody everytime a "square deal." Our ONE PRICE basis of sale insures the lowest price to all.

QUALITY THE FIRST CONSIDERATION.

If you simply seek cheapness in a piano, you not only do not save but defeat the very purpose for which pianos are bought. A piano is purchased to delight the family circle with music and to educate the ear. A thin, wiry-toned instrument in a fancy piece of cabinet work does neither of these things.

If you are contemplating the purchase of an instrument—or even view it as among future possibilities—there is every reason for making us a visit of inspection NOW

WHAT TWO DRINKS DID.

McKetty Thought He Had $3,000 After He Swallowed Them.

If Patrolman Dickson had not taken Sam McKetty into custody early yesterday morning the prisoner would in all probability have been a millionaire by night as he got hold of a brand of firewater of which two drinks converted him to the belief that he had $3,000 in the Hamilton National bank.

In the city court this morning McKetty said he had been drugged. He came here as head of a structural iron gang on the Pennsylvania and while waiting for his men he sampled the city booze and as he was harmless he got off with a reprimand.

HUMAN BLOOD MARKS.

A tale of horror was told by marks of human blood in the home of J. W. Williams, a well known merchant of Bac, Ky. He writes: "Twenty years ago I had severe hemorrhages of the lungs, and was near death when I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery. It completely cured me and I have remained well ever since." It cures Hemorrhages, Chronic Coughs, Settled Colds and Bronchitis, and is the only known cure for Weak Lungs. Every bottle guaranteed by Dreier & Bro., druggists. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

A JOKE FOR SMOKERS.

Try It On Your Bald-Headed Friends and Have a Laugh.

If you smoke a cigar that burns with good solid ashes that will not fall off until the cigar is half smoked up, such a cigar as the Wadsworth Bros.' Chicos, sold by Ranke & Nussbaum, you can have a good joke on some bald headed friend.

When there is an inch or two of ash on the end of the cigar just let it fall on that bald head and see how high it can jump. The ashes are not hot enough to burn, but they are warm enough to be felt.

The Chicos are a real ten cent Havana filled cigar that Ranke & Nussbaum sell for a nickel, and is the only 5c cigar where the ashes are firm and solid like those of expensive grades. You will enjoy a Chico anyway, so try one and see how good it is.

FOOD IN DINERS HELD BAD.

Pennsylvania Inspector Will Sue Pullman Palace Car Company.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 25.—Thirty-two prosecutions are to be brought against the Pullman Palace Car company for serving impure food in its diners. The actions will be entered by Dairy and Food Commissioner B. H. Warren. In each case specific charges will be the use of formaldehyde in milk and cream served in dining cars, buffet, chair cars and buffet sleeping cars. The penalty is a fine of from $50 to $100 in each case or sixty days' imprisonment, or both. Requisition papers will be asked for to secure the appearance of officers of the company from headquarters in Chicago. Thirty-two prosecutions were ordered at a conference held in Harrisburg Monday afternoon, during which Governor Samuel W. Pennypacker presided.

Traveling Men Complain.

Dr. Warren had received complaints regarding food served on dining cars from traveling men for many months and several weeks ago ordered Special Agent James Foust to make an investigation. Within a few days he produced samples of milk and cream taken from tables of dining cars of trains Nos. 2 and 5 on the Pennsylvania lines, known as Pennsylvania limited, an extra fare train. These samples, under chemical analysis, are said to have disclosed the presence of formaldehyde.

The Pullman company has its principal base of supplies in Jersey City, but a large commissary department is also conducted in this city. Following the disclosure Agent Foust called upon District Superintendent G. H. Edwards, of the Pullman company, whose headquarters are at 1013 Pennsylvania avenue, this city.

Bring Action in Many Counties.

He secured from him a bottle of cream taken from the local supply station and this bottle upon examination is also said to have contained formaldehyde. At the conference in Harrisburg it was decided to bring the actions in the counties through which diners were passing when the samples were taken. Among trains investigated were those on the main line of the Pennsylvania between Pittsburg and New York; Pennsylvania lines west of Erie; Pennsylvania lines between Pittsburg and Buffalo; Pittsburg and Lake Erie from Pittsburg to Buffalo; Baltimore and Ohio from Pittsburg east; Wabash from Pittsburg west, and Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburg from Pittsburg to Buffalo.

A quiet, but pretty home wedding of this evening will take place at 8:30 o'clock, when Miss Jane Levan Evans, daughter of Mrs. Anna C. Evans, will become the bride of Mr. Emil H. Kettler, only son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Kettler, of 318 East Wayne street. Rev. J. Webster Bailey, of Ottawa, Ill., is in the city to officiate, as he is a warm personal friend of the groom. The wedding will take place at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Joseph Evans, 1205 Fulton street. Miss Martha Kettler, a sister of the groom, will play the wedding march, and Burns Douglass will sing "Still Wie Die Nacht" before the marriage service. Little Delight Evans will be the ring bearer, but there will be no other attendants. The bride has been assistant librarian at the public library for several years. She has a sweet, womanly personality, which is further enhanced by a general prettiness of feature and coloring and grace of movement. Mr. Kettler is a young man of sterling qualities and high character. He has been successfully engaged in the furniture business in Lima, Ohio, for some years. Owing to a recent bereavement in the bride's family, the invitations to the wedding have been confined to the nearest relatives and a small number of intimate friends.

Hattersley-Blair.

No young and blushing bride, be she ever so exacting, could ask for or desire a lovelier wedding than was that of Miss Mayme Blair and Mr. Harry A. Hattersley, which took place last evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Solomon K. Blair. As the guests entered the house they were impressed with the beauty of the decorations and the fragrance of American Beauty roses which were used lavishly in all downstairs rooms with the exception of the library, where Rev. H. B. Master read the marriage service at half after 7 o'clock. Preceding the entrance of the bridal party Mrs. Oliver Reese, of Newcastle, Pa., a sister of the groom, sang "I Must Be a Wonderful Thing," by Liszt, which Mr. Troendle accompanied with violin obligato and Mr. Jacobs at the piano. The bride entered with her father and was attended by her friend and guest, Miss Gertrude Greening, of Bay City, Mich. The ceremony was performed under a wedding bell of roses and ferns and the room itself was done in a bower-like effect of ferns, roses and tiny electric lights. The groom was attended by Carl Woodworth. Slowly to the strains of Wagner's wedding music walked Miss Greening, looking handsome in a Parisian gown of pompadour silk, followed by the bride, who looked modest and unusually pretty. The bridal gown was of white satin, with court train. There was a garniture of duchess lace on the bodice and a long panel on the front part of the skirt. Pearls outlined the neck and sleeves and a diamond and pearl brooch, the gift of the groom, formed the only jewel ornament to the costume. The veil was beautiful, of the fashion known as the "shawl," made of silk maline with Spanish lace appliqued all round the edge. The bride held a bouquet of roses and orchids and Miss Greening carried white chrysanthemums. Wagner's "Evening Star" was played during the marriage ceremony.

The orchestra played Mendelssohn's wedding march and brilliant lights twinkled from a border of plumosus vine that extended round the walls of the rooms. Masses of Boston fern was used on mantels and high places. A hamper of ferns mingled with tall Beauty roses on the mantel in the reception room was banked below by masses of ferns and tall green baskets in which were dozens of roses. In the dining-room the scene was brilliant with lights and the same colors displayed in the use of satin ribbon bows on the corners of the table and a basket of roses. Round the basket on the table was a row of the little electric lights. From the chandelier extended plumosus and more lights. Mr. and Mrs. Clair and Mr. and Mrs. Byron E. Hattersley, parents of the groom, received the guests. At the bride's table were seated the bridal party and the bride's house guests, Miss Deppen and Miss Gleason with Messrs. Ben Woodworth and Kent Blair. Other guests were served a buffet supper. The bride and groom left last evening for the east, where they expect to tour the large cities for two weeks. The bride wore for traveling a tailor gown of navy blue cloth with dark blue felt hat trimmed with plumes. Mr. and Mrs. Hattersley will be at home after Jan. 1 at 2008 South Harrison street, where their house is now ready for occupancy.

Modish Styles in the Popular Wind Veil

Never, even in the land of the sultan have veils been more popular with womankind than here at present. Every other woman one meets on the street is enshrouded in at least one bit of flowing chiffon or lace and sometimes two. Brown is the color par excellence which is most modish, and every shade from the warm red and golden brown, to the darkest Havana and wood browns are used. In fact, so great is the demand for brown veiling that there is likely to occur the same dearth in the product that was experienced with long kid gloves of last season and the white silk ones of early summer.

Everything in brown veiling is smart, one style no more than another, and it is fortunate that it is so, for the woman who sallies forth with the firm intention of securing a certain pattern, soon discovers to her sorrow that it is like hunting for a needle in a haystack, and forthwith meekly takes what is offered her.

One of the most modish patterns in vogue, but one which is most difficult to find in stock simply because of its popularity, is a plain dotted net either with the ring dot or the solid dot scattered over the surface, the edge finished simply with a hem of the material or else an accordion pleating of chiffon.

The Brussels net veils come in a variety of patterns from the rose design showing tiny roses scattered delicately over a plain net surface to the more elaborate vines and flowers with heavy ornate borders which give the wearer the appearance of being tattooed.

Fancy meshes with ornate scroll-like borders are fancied by some though the style selected is largely a matter of taste rather tha na mandate of fashion.

As to the method of draping the new wind veils, they are attached in three ways. Perhaps the smartest, which follows the style most modish in Paris, is the long veil reaching quite to the waist in the back, which is draped artistically about the hat, pinned up slightly in the back and caught together at the nape of the neck with a fancy veil pin, the length of material flowing free from that point to the waistline and often below. The style is extreme, and it takes a woman with considerable chic to wear it.

Simply draping the veil easily about the face, catching it comfortably to the brim of the hat at the back and allowing it to fall gracefully about the neck and shoulders is perhaps the style most popular. An adaptation of the same style to the French idea is obtained by pinning the folds of the veil at the nape of the neck with a fancy pin.

"SHE STOOPS TO CONQUER."

W. H. Crane, Miss Jeffreys and an Artistic Company at Majestic.

That fascinating old comedy which Oliver Goldsmith wrote, "She Stoops to Conquer," was presented at the Majestic theater last night by a company of superlative merit, including a Fort Wayne favorite, William H. Crane, and Miss Ellis Jeffreys, whose charming presence and fine acting greatly pleased the audience.

Altogether the performance gave much satisfaction and genuine and unalloyed pleasure. The play itself is a perennial joy and a delight. Would it were possible to have its like oftener. The naturalness of situation and continual humor are always apparent and in hands of such a company as the one of last night, the audience experiences a pleasure never to be forgotten.

To attempt to enumerate the reasons why the acting of Mr. Crane—who has never shown a keener artistic appreciation of a role than he does as Mr. Hardcastle—of Miss Jeffreys, as the exquisite daughter and make-believe barmaid, of George Giddens, whose fame as a brilliant comedian was realized by all who saw him as Tony Lumpkin, and of the finished work of that famous artist long on the stage, Fanny Addison Pitt, would be well nigh impossible. It would mean such a differentiation of qualities of voice, gesture and expression. No one could possibly describe Tony's laugh or roguish expression as he time and again alternately pleases and angers his mother. No less agreeable, were Walter Hale as the young Marlowe, or Fred Thorne as Diggory, while Margaret Dale, who has heretofore been seen in society roles of dignity and much manner, blossomed into a coquettish and kittenish young girl whose beauty was alluring.

AN "AWFUL" HUSBAND.

When a young couple were being married recently at a registrar's office, the bride, instead of repeating the usual formula, said, "I take this man to be my awful husband," and the registrar, pointing out her mistake, made her repeat the correct words.

Another bride refused to leave her house because the carriage that came to take her to the church was drawn by only one horse, says Home Chat. The coachman was sent back to get the pair which had been ordered, but this caused such delay that when the church was finally reached it was three minutes after the statutory time, and the ceremony had to be postponed until the next day.

Colored Silk Boleros Brighten Evening Gowns for Debutantes

With Bright Bolero Jacket Plain Frock Becomes Dressy Enough for Receptions, Theaters.

BY A. T. ASHMORE.

If anything, afternoon receptions and days at home increase in popularity, so that the debutante who chooses to burst upon the social world with a magnificent ball or immense theater party must undergo the doubtful pleasures of a large reception, or, if not that, a series of days at home. The costumes now designed for the days at home are most elaborate and of the handsomest and most delicate materials, and this season the models all show a certain originality of design and of trimming that is most effective. The color, rather than any special contrast in design or material, differentiates the debutante's frock from her mother's gown, but even here there is no steadfast rule, for white is worn by all ages, and even pink and pale blue are still worn as long as they prove becoming. All white, however, is generally accepted as the debutante's shade, and at her first formal entertainment she will invariably be seen in a gown of soft white lace, satin, or silk or chiffon, as the case may be.

Pretty for Debutantes' Gowns.

Chiffon, prettily trimmed with quantities of soft, rich lace, makes an attractive frock for the debutante, and if likely to be more becoming, the white may be relieved by cream rather than ivory colored lace. The most expensive lace is naturally not necessary for a young girl, but only a good imitation should ever be used, and the poorer the quality the less there should be of it on the dress. There are many grades of Lierre and applique laces that are less expensive than the Irish and Valenciennes and which are most effective. Lace flounces are being used again and lace ruffles of all widths, while on the bodice the lace bolero is seen frequently this season.

The empire, directoire and princess models are all made up for young girls, but belts of all widths are also seen, some even having long sash ends.

Bright Colored Bolero Worn With White.

Instead of an all white gown many of the lace and chiffon dresses are made with little boleros of bright colored silk or satin, from which long vest ends hang to the knee of the skirt. If desired the gown may be finished quite complete without this little coat, and then it may be worn either as a simple white dress or with the smart bolero of plain or flowered silk. The plain jackets are perhaps newer, but all flowered and figured taffetas and brocades are also exceedingly fashionable. The silk coat is sometimes seen quite plain, but as a rule it is trimmed with narrow ruchings of silk and edged all round with lace, the sash also being bordered with a ruche of lace.

Crepe de Chine an Economical Frock.

If the debutante must economize and make each gown serve a variety of purposes, she had best select a gown of white or cream crepe de Chine. Even in the satin finish this material is most inexpensive and a dress length in the dull finish can be had for very little indeed. Crepe de Chine is fashionable again, too, so the dress is sure to look well if a graceful design is chosen. An accordion pleated skirt requires a little more material, but then all trimming is dispensed with, so it is perhaps cheaper in the end than a trimmed skirt. The skirt should be left sufficiently long to allow of a few tucks being run in close to the hem after the pleating has been put in—from two to three inches makes a good tuck. The waist may be either plain or tucked in some way with a deep bertha or surplice of lace and transparent yoke of lace or tucked chiffon. The elbow sleeves should be very light in appearance—a transparent lace puff beneath a shoulder cape of the material of the dress. If the dress is in two parts a wide belt of some soft satin makes an attractive touch against the dull crepe.

Did You Ever Know

How it feels to be perfectly well?

Perfectly well means a lot. Not an ache, all or protest of any kind from body or mind.

The Heaven of perfect poise when the life forces drive rich, strong red blood through the veins and fill one with an indefinable joy, when nature and all the world seems to be sending caresses to you.

Then the sky is beautiful whether it be gray or a deep restful eternity-reaching blue or covered with softly moulded, round bosomed clouds lazily floating about and the breeze is kind and sweet whether it smooth your cheek with the soft touch of the woman who loves you or energetically fills your lungs with the strong tonic of life.

Trees nod, the fallen leaves frisk about in fairy grace, flowers smile and send their fragrance and every friend you meet seems a warm hearted brother reaching out for companionship. Perhaps an open fire beckons, beside which tabby purrs out her soft song of peace. Harmony from every side greets the harmony within and there steals over one from head to foot the subtle, sensuous tingle of warm new blood, the perfect poise of a well-fed nervous system.

All this is absolute evidence that the possessor has been fed right and should stick to that kind of food and habits which have produced the result. The facts stand forth and the conclusions are certain. If trouble, distress and inharmony fill the days and blot out the rightful peace every human being has a right to change the food.

If your present method of feeding makes imperfect cells and fails to build the soft gray matter in brain and nerve centers scattered over the body, look alive, quit the old diet, and take on a new and better one. That's plain common sense. Right then is the exact time to quit coffee absolutely and select meals wisely. Suppose you try for breakfast,

A little fruit,
A dish of Grape-Nuts and cream,
Two soft-boiled eggs,
A cup of Postum Food Coffee.

Stop at that, it will carry you easily until the midday meal, which can be either a lunch of the same things (if a dinner is expected at night) or the heavy meal can be taken at midday. Take only one heavy meal in a day in addition to the two light ones.

At the heavy meal have one good meat course, with one or two vegetables, and a rich, sweet Grape-Nuts pudding. After a few days on these meals a change for the better will come over the body in practically every case where the disease has not become too firmly fixed and chronic.

Remember health is a matter of wisely selected food and a harmonious mind. It will be a tremendous help to read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," found in pkgs. of Postum and Grape-Nuts.

"There's a Reason" and a profound one.

Fruit and Nut Rolls.
Coffee.

—Luncheon.—

Creamed Celery au Gratin.

Baked Apple Dumplings, Hard Sauce.
Small Cups of Coffee.

The following recipes are given out by Janet M. Hill:

Fruit and Nut Rolls—Sift together three times, three cups of flour, six level teaspoonfuls of baking powder and half a teaspoonful of salt. Work in from one-third to one-half cup of shortening. Then mix to a dough with milk. Turn the dough onto a floured board, knead slightly, then roll into a rectangular sheet about one-third of an inch thick. Brush over the sheet of dough with softened butter, then sprinkle with salt and raisins or cleaned currants and filberts (hazelnuts). Cut into small pieces. Roll up the dough compactly, cut the roll in pieces an inch long. Set these on end, close together, in a buttered baking pan. Bake about twenty minutes. (Try chopped mixed nuts and dates and figs cut fine for fruit.)

Green Pepper Omelet—Cut a sweet green pepper in halves lengthwise and remove the seeds. Then cut it into tiny shreds. Put a tablespoon of butter in the omelet pan, and when hot, add the pepper and cook about five minutes without browning, stirring, so it will be uniformly softened. Have ready in a bowl four eggs, a scant half-teaspoon of salt and a dash of pepper beaten until a full spoonful can be taken up. Turn the egg over the pepper, shake the pan, or pick up the cooked egg with a fork to let the uncooked mixture down onto the pan; when the egg is strictly set, roll and turn onto a hot dish. Garnish with bunches of parsley, when obtainable.

Baked Crabapples—If one wishes to have a really rich dish, cover a pan of these red crabs with water, adding a large cup of sugar and bake slowly until soft. There will be a rich jelly around the apples.

Squash Baked with Molasses—Cut squash (removing skin or not as is most convenient) into pieces, for serving, and put these into an agate baking dish. Pour over eight pieces about half a cup of molasses and sprinkle lightly with salt, and put a teaspoonful of butter on each piece of squash. Bake until tender—about half an hour—basting four or more times with the liquid in the pan. Serve very hot.

ANTI-RHEUMATIC BATH.

I guess you have reference to an anti-rheumatic bath of fifty grams of green soap and thirty grams of oil of turpentine. The two ingredients should be placed in a small jar and thoroughly agitated until the mixture forms. Then add to the hot bath. As soon as there is felt a prickly sensation, in about fifteen minutes, get out of the bath and directly into bed. There should be immediate relief. Occasionally the addition of a little oil of turpentine added to the bath will alternate the pain.

MAYOR'S COMMUNICATION.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Oct. 23rd, 1906.
To the Common Council:

Gentlemen: I have approved General Ordinance No. 332 passed at your session of October 9th, 1906. Said ordinance providing for the extension of the city limits and annexing certain territory to the City of Fort Wayne, Indiana, as amended October 9th, 1906.

Respectfully,
WM. J. HOSEY,
Mayor.

Spread on record.

CONTROLLER'S COMMUNICATION.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Oct. 22nd, 1906.
To the Common Council.

Gentlemen: The Board of Public Safety have asked for an appropriation of one hundred and seventy-five dollars ($175.00) to be used in the purchase of a new ten-ton scale.

In view of the fact that the scale now in use has become unreliable by reason of long and constant use, exposure to weather, and in view of the fact that the cost of repairs and the loss of revenue, while scale is sent to shops for a general overhauling will amount to as much as they ask for the new scale the City will certainly be the gainer if a new up-to-date reliable scale is substituted. I therefore approve of an appropriation of one hundred and seventy-five dollars ($175.00) for that purpose. In view of the fact that the scale now in use is not reliable, the change should be made as soon as possible in order to check any loss in revenues.

Respectfully,
AUGUST M. SCHMIDT,
City Controller.

Spread on record.

COMMUNICATION FROM BOARD OF PUBLIC SAFETY.

Fort Wayne, Ind., October 23rd, 1906.
Mr. August M. Schmidt,
City Controller.

Dear Sir: We would request you to arrange for the appropriation of one hundred and seventy-five dollars ($175.00) for the purchase of a new scales to be used by the City Weighmaster.

For some time past there have been numerous complaints brought to us in regard to the inaccuracy of the work being done by the city scales. After a careful personal examination, and also having the scales examined by an expert from the factory, we have come to the conclusion that a new scales is an absolute necessity. The present one has been in constant use, out in the open air, for over twelve years, and owing to rust and wear, has become so badly worn that people are going elsewhere to have their weighing done. To make even a temporary repair the scales would have to be sent to the factory, which would put it out of commission for over two weeks. Even at that it would only be delaying the purchase of a new scale for a very short time, and at a cost, counting loss of service for two weeks and expense of repair, within a few dollars of the cost of a new one. We have had figures from several scale men and have decided that the Howe people have made the best proposition, to-wit:

To place a new up-to-date ten ton scales in place for the sum of $175.00, and the old scales. When you consider that the city scales brings into the city treasury the sum of over $1,000.00 a year above all expense, including salary of weighmaster, you can readily see that we can not afford to let it go into disrepute. There is an urgent necessity that this matter be attended to at once.

Please give it your immediate attention.

Yours respectfully,
GEORGE HERRMANN,
J. J. HAYES,
CALVIN K. RIEMAN,
Board of Public Safety.

THE BIGNESS OF FOREST PARK

The fact that over two hundred lots have already been sold in Forest Park should not deter prospective buyers from purchasing, under the belief that the choice sites have all been "gobbled up." On the contrary, many of the very best lots remain. Remember that Forest Park is a great big place, while many of the other additions to the city are diminutive in proportion. The area of Forest Park is about equal to that of FORTY-NINE ordinary city squares. Think of it!

Things to remember: Prices, $275 to $475. Terms—$10 down and $5 a month; or, if you pay cash within thirty days from date of purchase, 5 per cent will be deducted. The addition has two car lines. It has a good public school. A broad cement walk is placed free in front of every lot. Shade trees are set out free in front of all lots. Six deep wells have been sunk in various parts of the addition. A city water main extends the entire length of the addition. The neighborhood is splendid. It is an ideal spot for a home or for investment.

Building has already commenced in Forest Park. See the addition before you buy a lot anywhere.

A PECULIAR THING

Nature is peculiar in everything. It is natural that we should eat and receive the full benefit of our food, but, do you get the full benefit? To do so you must have your entire system in perfect order, and the repository of all food—the stomach—must perform its proper duties. When it does not, complications affect stomach, kidney and liver trouble follow, constipation sets in, pains in the back and sides are constant, and the whole system is thrown out of order.

Quaker Herb Extract reaches the seat of the trouble, and removes the cause. It discharges all impurities in the natural manner, and rebuilds the entire human organism.

Jas. R. Hughes, 1308 West Eleventh street, Muncie, Ind., suffered untold agonies for twelve years, from so-called stomach trouble. For three years he was unable to work. Less than one-half a bottle of Quaker Herb Extract relieved him of a tape-worm 80 feet long, six bottles made an entirely different man of him, and Mr. Hughes is today strong and healthier than ever before in his entire life.

This medicine has proven all claims made for it by the Great Dunn.

Quaker Herb Extract is for sale by your local druggists.

introduce tonight a man who needs no introduction to Fort Wayne," said Judge Zollars, "nor to any audience in the world, for his name is known all over the world—a man whom the people have delighted to honor in the past, and upon whom they will soon confer the title president of the United States—William Jennings Bryan." As Judge Zollars concluded the cheering broke forth afresh, and after waiting a moment Mr. Bryan was compelled to signal for quiet that he might begin speaking.

His opening sentence was a pleasant and kindly reference to Fort Wayne. "It seems to me," he said, "as if I were at home in Fort Wayne, for I have not forgotten my several previous visits here in which I made the acquaintance of so many of your democratic citizens. It is a most pleasant thought for me to realize that I have been in such close sympathy with them, and my thoughts have often been upon Fort Wayne when I was in other places."

"Tonight," continued Mr. Bryan, "it is a pleasure to bring to you a message of hope and good cheer, assurance that the people are coming into their own.

"I left this country for a foreign tour believing that the democratic party was 100 years old," said Mr. Bryan, "and I return with the knowledge that the party is 25,000 miles wide. The democratic party is a world-wide party, and its principles are pervading the whole world. The principles of Jefferson, the greatest constructive statesman the world has ever known, the man who believed in bringing the government near to the people instead of taking it away from the people, are growing and pervading the nations of the world more than ever. Democracy is growing everywhere, for even in England Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman is carrying to success a policy that shall place the individual English voter on an equal plane with the landlord. Even in Russia the spirit of democracy is growing and while the immediate result is uncertain, the ultimate success of the democracy in the czar's country cannot be doubted.

Growing in America.

"And I am more than glad to know that democracy is growing more in America than anywhere else. The democratic party is close to the people, in sympathy with the people. The republican party today is following the doctrine of Hamilton, and republicans look upon Hamilton as a great statesman, while they say Jefferson was a dreamer. Hamilton was an aristocrat, Jefferson a commoner who believed the people were able to rule themselves. Jefferson believed a public officer was a public servant, only to be kept in office as long as he remained honest. The republican Hamiltonian idea is that men are born to hold power over their fellow men.

"Now, I don't believe in any man holding office for a lifetime. You know Roosevelt is only two years older than I am, and he is in perfect health," said Mr. Bryan, and the sally caused a roar of laughter in the audience.

"But now, if we were following the republican Hamiltonian theory," he continued, "there wouldn't be any President Roosevelt, because Grover Cleveland is still alive. But don't you think we ought to change once in a while?"

Mr. Bryan said that for the same reasons he gave above he favored the election of senators by popular vote. The development of party sentiment and public opinion may come from two different sources, he said. The republican party believes in forming opinion among the "upper classes" and letting it percolate downward, while the democratic theory is that it should begin at the bottom and work upward.

Trusts vs. Workingmen.

"Now as to prosperity and what we owe to corporations for it," said Mr. Bryan, "I want to call your attention to the fact that ever since the republicans were converted to the belief that there were trusts and corporations, they have been defending and excusing their rexistence on the ground that they help out the workingman. Whenever I hear that argument I think about the bible story about Lazarus picking up the crumbs that fell from Dives' table. What would poor Lazarus have done if Dives hadn't let fall a few crumbs? Our republican friends will probably hold that it was mighty lucky that Lazarus was there to get them. The republican theory is that the workingman should be deeply grateful to the corporations for the blessings of prosperity."

Mr. Bryan assailed the republican claim that its success was the cause of prosperity. He pointed out that shortly after the election of 1896, in which the democrats had contended for a larger issue of money, great quantities of gold had poured into the mints, relieving the stringency. Good crops had aided in bettering the conditions.

Follow Democratic Policies.

The speaker then pointed out that practically every popular work undertaken by Mr. Roosevelt—railroad rate legislation, the curbing of the trusts, meat inspection and other reforms, had been originally advocated by the democrats and formed a part of the party platforms in former campaigns. He cited the fact that notably in the rate legislation matter it was democratic aid to the president that enabled the law to pass because the republican senatorial cabal was against any legislation.

"And I congratulate President Roosevelt," he said, "on the number of good republicans who are climbing on our democratic platform. It is very gratifying to see honest men, democrats, republicans and populists, all marching in the same direction, and that direction the one pointed out by the democrats ten years ago. You can be sure that when honest republicans call out, 'Come on, boys,' they are beckoning in the direction we have pointed out."

The trusts, the advanced position of the democratic party on questions affecting the economy of the home and the honesty of men in office, its record on public legislation, the desertion of Mr. Roosevelt by his party and his reliance for support from democrats when measures of public welfare were involved, were all treated by Mr. Bryan.

Scored the "Standpatters."

He scored the "stand-pat" theory of leading republicans as inimical to progress, and declared that the history of the past few months showed that the way to "stand by Roosevelt" was to elect democrats to congress who were pledged to reform, and not republicans who would be controlled by the president's opponents in his own party. He referred to the fact that many of the things for the advocacy of which some years ago he had been declared radical had since become recognized necessities, and had been adopted even by President Roosevelt and Senator Beveridge. When he had spoken for nearly an hour, Mr. Bryan remarked that as he had another speaking engagement for the evening he purposed closing, there were cries from the audience, "go on for an hour longer," but the speaker only smiled and remarked that he must not do so. He closed with an appeal for the election of Dr. Morr, the democratic nominee for congress in this district, and for steadfastness for the presidential contest two years hence.

RALSTON HITS GOVERNOR.

Holds Crowd at Court House Until Mr. Bryan's Arrival.

The overflow meeting scheduled for the court house square was held inside the building, although a platform had been erected outside and all preparations made for an open air affair. The cold weather, however, was too much for the speakers and it was held in the second floor of the rotunda.

Hon. Samuel M. Ralston was the speaker and he began an hour later than schedule time, after having been introduced by Hon. J. M. Robinson. The speaker started with a tribute to Mr. Bryan, whom he not only characterized as the leading citizen of Nebraska but of the United States and the world at large and stated that kings and monarchs had prayed for a chance to touch the hem of his garment.

Next he took up national issues and spent half an hour with the trusts, taking the ground that all of the things Mr. Bryan had predicted in his first campaign had come to pass and that in applying the remedies President Roosevelt is simply following out what Mr. Bryan had advised in both of his own campaigns and in the others in which he had taken part.

Done with the trusts Mr. Ralston began a grilling of Governor Hanly in which the most serious accusation was that the executive head of the state government had sent David Sherrick to the penitentiary after having borrowed $700 of public money from him with which to buy votes in the Marion county nominating convention. He also called attention to the fact that Daniel Storms had escaped punishment and is now holding a good fat office in the west for the reason that he knew too much and the governor of Indiana did not dare prosecute him as he had Sherrick.

The increase in taxes during the administration was also touched upon and attention of the audience called to the fact that there is a statute compelling public officials to turn over to the state all interest on public funds in spite of the fact that the governor is asking the people to give him a legislature that will enact such a law.

His speech was frequently applauded and he held the interest of his audience.

Many people were misled by the platform outside the court house and when Mr. Bryan arrived there was a goodly gathering there that did not find out for some time that the address was being delivered in the corridor.

Mr. Bryan left over the Wabash this morning for a tour of Ohio in the course of which he will deliver addresses at Maumee, Cecil, Defiance, Haviland, Findlay, Carey, Upper Sandusky, Forest, Canton, Mansfield, Wooster, Millersburg, Ortville, Letonia, Valley Junction, New Philadelphia, Zanesville, Malta, Marietta, Belbre, Athens, Lancaster, Middletown Junction, Middletown, Dayton, Sidney, Ansonia and Van Wert.

How the Stork Answered Little Nell's Letter.

BY ANNIE JAMES.

Little Nell was an only child. And little Nell was very unhappy at times on account of it, too, for there were days when she did not go to school; then the time passed very dully indeed for the little miss. To be sure, she had much more attention than did other little girls who had sisters and brothers, but it was not attention that little Nell craved; she craved the companionship of a sister or a brother—or both.

One day her mamma sat reading a pretty story to little Nell all about how a stork went down a great chimney and left a tiny baby boy as a birthday gift to a little girl about little Nell's own size and age.

Little Nell sat meditating a long time after that story had been finished; then she ran into her mamma's room and cried out:

"Say, mamma, where do the storks live?"

"Oh, there are storks in many different countries," replied mamma.

"But I mean the storks that bring babies," said little Nell.

"There's just one great stork whose duty it is to bring the babies," answered mamma, smiling at her little daughter's deep interest in the subject.

"Well, why doesn't he ever stop at our house?" asked little Nell. Then quickly thinking of something she went on without waiting for an answer from mamma: "Oh, I'm sure it's because we have no big replace with a chimney large enough for him to fly down. I don't see why we should have only a furnace and gas grates. I wish we might exchange homes with the Smiths. Just see how many children they have—there's Minnie, Fred, Totts and the new baby what hasn't been named yet. But if we had a baby we'd name it right off, wouldn't we, mamma?"

"Sometimes it is very hard to settle on a name for a newcomer," answered mamma, smiling. "You see, one must go through life with the name that is bestowed on him when he first arrives on earth; so one must be rather choice in the matter of giving a name."

"Well, I was almost a week deciding on a name for my Jap doll," said little Nell. "And now I'm sorry I called her Mosan. I'd rather she was called Chrysanthemum."

"Rather a heavy name for a little Jap, isn't it?" asked mamma.

"Yes, but it would be lovely when she's grown up into a young lady," said little Nell. "Then she'd be Miss Chrysanthemum. And that makes me think—I must soon get her graduation dress done. She'll graduate soon, you know." And as mamma laughed at her little daughter's remark about her Jap doll, Mosan, little Nell ran off to her room to sew on a doll frock of gay-colored silk which was being made in true Japanese style for little Mosan.

But as the young miss worked her mind kept reverting to the story her mamma had read to her that morning. So it was one stork who attended to bestowing those dear little babies which the people all about them kept receiving at different times! Then why should not that old bird stop at their house—the home of little Nell? Were not her parents just the right sort to rear a dear little baby boy or girl—or both? Had they not been the very best papa and mamma in the world to her? And could she not spare a part of their love and attention to a wee brother or sister—or both?

Then little Nell dropped her needle and thread and sat thinking very deeply. "That's what I'll do," she said aloud to herself after a few moments' meditation. "I'll just do it right now, too. There is no time like the present, as mamma always says when there is a button off my shoe or a stitch needed in my frock. So as this matter is of much more importance than a shoe button or a torn frock, it must not be put off."

Hastily she ran down stairs to the library. No one was about, for mamma was sewing in her own apartments and the housemaid was up stairs doing up the rooms. Quickly she seated herself at the writing desk, taking paper and ink preparatory to writing a letter. For a moment she seemed undecided just how to begin; then she put pen to paper and wrote the following:

"Dear Mr. or Mrs. Stork: I don't know just which you are, a gobbler or a hen stork, so you must excuse me for beginning in this way. But I am sure it won't make any difference to you, for you are too busy a stork to pay any attention to such small matters. Now, my dear Mr. or Mrs. Stork, I want to ask a favor of you, and a great favor it is, too. I want you to bring a boy or girl baby to our house just as soon as you get one on hand that you have not engaged to anybody else. Really, I would not mind—neither would papa and mamma, I'm quite sure—if you should bring us twins. I'd love to have one of them a boy and the other a girl, but I would not want you to not come with just one baby simply because I prefer twins. Of course, we'd be very thankful for just one, either boy or girl, for it may be that you haven't any twins in stock, and I don't want to wait for you to order any more. So please bring us just what you happen to have and we'll be ever so grateful. If you happen to have two little ones, and one has blue eyes and one brown, will you please bring the one with blue eyes? I have brown eyes and it would be nice to have a sister or brother different to me. Papa has blue eyes and mamma brown ones, like mine. Mamma and I would love to have one like papa. Oh, yes, Mr. or Mrs. Stork, papa has beautiful teeth, and we'd like the new baby to have the same sort of teeth.

"But I don't want you to think me particular. I'm not at all so. I'll be very well satisfied to have a baby about like the last one you brought to the Smiths. While it isn't a beauty, it is very cute, and crows and laughs like everything. And it is so fat that it has dimples in its knees, wrists and cheeks. Its mamma—Mrs. Smith, you know—says he is the prettiest baby in the world. But I'll bet my Jap doll that you can bring us a prettier one.

"I don't know whether or not you charge for babies, but if you do please bring the bill and papa will gladly pay it within 30 days and get the 10 per cent. discount. That is the way he pays for all the goods in his store. I've heard him tell mamma so. And I'm sure he'd be even more prompt in paying for the baby, for he dearly loves babies.

"Now, Mr. or Mrs. Stork, we haven't a chimney large enough for you to come down, so I suggest this way for you to bring in the baby: Our kitchen has a flat roof, and mamma's room windows on one side open out on this roof. If you will put the baby on the kitchen roof, right beside one of the windows, and gently peck against the pane with your bill, so as to wake papa and mamma, you may fly away without any anxiety, for as soon as they see what is by the window they will quickly take it in.

"And how happy we all will be. Be sure to put the bill for the baby inside its little shirt, so it won't get lost.

"Your admiring and hopeful little friend, who gets so lonely without a brother or sister, NELLIE JONES."

After finishing the letter Nellie carefully read it over, finding it quite satisfactory. (Though I must tell you that it was not quite so correctly spelled and punctuated as the one here in print, for Nellie was only seven and could not spell and write so well as older persons could.) Then she folded it, slipped it into an envelope and addressed it to

"Mr. or Mrs. Stork,
The one that has the babies to give away,
In the Clouds Somewhere,
Near Heaven."

Nellie looked about for a stamp, and not finding one, laid the letter down, forgetting to seal it, and ran up stairs to get her hat and two pennies, deciding to not wait till papa should come home to give her the postage, but to go herself to the drug store nearby and get it, so that she might send the letter off by the postman that afternoon. While she was absent mamma came into the library, saw the queer superscription on the letter, and, smiling, opened and read it. Then she carefully placed it back in the envelope and sealed it. She also wrote a note, which she addressed to the postmaster, and which she would mail at the same time that little Nell should post hers.

The following morning Nell's grandmamma came in from the country to spend the day. During her visit it was arranged that Nell was to go home with her for a week. At first Nell objected, but she would not give her reason for doing so. The truth was, she feared the stork might make a visit during her absence. Her mamma, guessing the cause of her little daughter's objection to leaving home, said:

"If anything unusual happens before the day set for your return we'll send for you, dear." And then Nell consented to accompany her grandmamma to the country.

But how eagerly Nell watched the days of the week go by, marking them off on the calendar as they passed. At last, on the fifth day of her visit, here came John, the coachman, after her and he gave her a note which ran:

"The stork came to our house last night and left twins on the kitchen roof. If you want to see the new sister and brother come home with John." The note was signed by Nell's papa.

"Oh, the stork answered my letter!" cried Nell in glee. And grandmamma could hardly hold her long enough to say good-by. "Twins—twins! Oh, now I'll never be lonely again. Bless the dear, good stork. But I wonder which it is—Mr. or Mrs.? Anyway, I'll write a letter of acceptance and thanks to the stork as soon as I've examined those dear, precious babies."

And away she rode toward home, the happiest little girl in all the world.

Little Biographies of Big Men.

BY MARY GRAHAM.

The name of Audubon is endeared to all the world that loves bird life, and it is only natural that children, when reading of the stanch friend of the feathered kingdom should ask about Audubon's youth. For want of space only the briefest sketch can be given here of the boyhood of the great American ornithologist, John James Audubon.

He was of French extraction, his father, one of a family of 21 children, having been born at Sable d'Olonne, France. Owing to the largeness of the family and the smallness of its means, the father of the object of this sketch set out from home when 12 years old to seek his fortune among strangers. He shipped before the mast as a common sailor, visiting many countries and becoming an expert seaman. At 25 he was captain and owner of a small sea-going craft.

During one of his sojourns in the United States, where he bought considerable property, he met and married in Louisiana a lady of Spanish extraction, who was possessed of quite a fortune. Four children were born of this union, the youngest of three sons being John James, who was born May 4, 1780. While John James was still quite a little chap the Audubons went to the island of Santo Domingo to live on a beautiful estate that the elder Audubon had acquired prior to his marriage. But hardly had they got settled in their new home when that terrible and memorable rising of negroes took place, Madame Audubon being one of the victims of that bloody outrage.

The elder Audubon immediately took his children to France, where, after his season of mourning, he married again. Soon after his second marriage he left his family and returned to America in the employ of the French government as an officer of the imperial navy.

John James Audubon tells us that his earliest recollections are of the flowering land of Louisana, where, lying on his back in the shade of the orange trees, he would for hours watch the movements of the mocking birds, while their songs filled him with delight. He speaks of the vividness of these early recollections and of the sweetness of his childlife there when he chose birds and insects for his companions rather than the society of children.

After going to France to live Audubon's life became one of indolent ease and indulgence. His stepmother, having no children of her own, humored every whim of her stepchildren, and Audubon speaks of her as having been "overwhelmingly kind." But on the return of the father the idle life of the youngsters came to a close, for he sent them to school straightway. It was the parent's wish that John James should become a cadet in the French Navy and the boy's course of study was planned with that vocation in mind.

But even as a child Audubon was filled with a love for the wild creatures of bush and air, and his vacations were spent rambling through the woods in quest of "specimens," such as birds' nests and insects, which he took great delight in studying.

Before Audubon reached his majority his father sent him to the United States to look after some property which he had purchased there. Thus it was that America came into her own again, for John James Audubon made this country his home and became noted as the great American ornithologist.

The old Audubon homestead on Manhattan Island—now within the limits of New York city—still stands in the beautiful park which goes by the name of the great naturalist who lived there.

John James Audubon.

When Dick Threw the Wad.

BY MAUD WALKER.

Dick was not what you would call a bad boy, but he was a very mischievous little fellow, his fun bubbling over all the time, much to the amusement of his comrades at school and the annoyance of his teacher. Not for one moment could the naughty chap be kept quiet. If he studied he did it with all his might. When he played he showed even greater persistence than when he worked. Dick's mother said he was the promise of a great man, for only greatness could come from such a store of energy, and his teacher said there was trouble ahead for a boy whose mind conceived such tricks as did Dick's. But the truth was, Dick was a normal boy, possessing neither any great amount of genius nor undue meanness.

Dick attended the public school in the little town where he lived. The teacher in his room was about 50 years old and was afflicted with indigestion. She had taught school since her twentieth year, which may have accounted for her stomach trouble. But that did not make it any the easier on the pupils. The children always dreaded Monday, the day on which their teacher was unusually more "out of order," so to speak, as it followed so closely on the great Sunday dinner of chicken, spiced ham, hot pudding and ice-cream—(I am indebted to one of the pupils for the Sunday's menu at teacher's boarding-house) that the suffering woman had not time to recover from her feasting.

And it seemed to Dick that all the little harmless—(his way of thinking, not Teacher's)—pranks came to his mind and were acted upon on Monday. But it was doubtless due to Teacher's indigestion that her eyes were always more on the move, scanning everything and everybody in the schoolroom on Monday. Also her hearing seemed slightly sharper than on other week days, for ordinarily it was somewhat impaired.

"Just been oiling up her eyes and ears with chicken gravy," said Dick in a whisper to his seat companion one Monday when Teacher was unusually alert. "Can't move my little finger, even though I hide it in my pistol-pocket, but what her all-seeing orb discovers I've crooked it."

"Yes, and if you draw your breath she hears it going in and blowing out. The kind of teacher I'd like would be a blind mute." So whispered back Dick's comrade, saying things he did not mean, of course, for he was not an evil-minded chap at all. He only wanted to say something to make his chum laugh, and he met with his desire. Dick snickered out, stuffing his handkerchief in his mouth quickly—but not quickly enough to smother the gurgle in his throat. Teacher turned around, looking sharply at Dick, who was bending over his book, his face very red, but his eyes intent on a map upside down, his lips moving as if in study.

"Dick Landon, come here!" And Teacher's voice warned her pupils that she was suffering a severe attack of indigestion.

Dick raised his head quickly, trying to assume a look of surprised innocence; but Teacher was used to his ways, and repeated: "Come here!"

The young man rose and obeyed the summons, looking into Teacher's sallow face with such a frankness which seemed to ask "What for, Teacher dear?" that the angry woman almost decided the snicker had come from another source. But fearing to be thought hard-of-hearing she pointed to a corner near the blackboard and said: "Take your stand there and don't move till I excuse you."

"Yes'm," said Dick, very meek. And he took his place in the corner, turning his book right side up with a determination to study while thus isolated from his companions. Then he fell to tracing the rivers of Africa. But the picture on the page of a monkey hanging to a tree limb looked so much like a certain Irish comedian that Dick had seen at the theater the week before that he again let out a little giggle. This time Teacher glared at him for fully a minute without saying a word; then she walked deliberately over to him, took hold of one of his ears and marched him to a seat containing but one pupil, pushing Dick into the vacant end.

Now, if she had whipped Dick, whipped him right in the presence of the school, too, he would not have minded half so much as he did being put into this particular seat, for the occupant was none other than Lulu Gray, a little girl whom Dick admired to the extent that he whispered very privately to the boys that "Lulu's my best gurl." But, of course, Dick had never hinted of such a possession to the object of his choice. In her presence he felt very awkward and ill at ease. He admired her so much that he kept himself at a safe distance from her, fearing to make some rude break that might make him ridiculous in his "best gurl's" eyes.

When he sat down he glanced, blushing, out of the tail of his eye at the trim little figure at his side. She was intent on her geography lesson, the page she had open before her containing the identical monkey picture which had been the direct cause of Dick's latest disgrace. Lulu did not deign to glance up, not even when the teacher, in rasping tones, said: "Now, Dick Landon, I'll keep you sitting beside a girl till you make up your mind to behave during books. The schoolroom is no place in which to practice laughing and sleight-of-hand tricks. But I want all the pupils to understand that seating you beside Lulu in no way reflects upon her good behavior. She being one of the most conscientious scholars in the room may have some influence upon the conduct of the unruly element. Now, all at your books."

Dick tried to keep his eyes directed on his geography, but in vain. Occasionally his eyes dared lift themselves slowly and slyly to the profile of the pretty maiden at his side. Her flaxen hair lay about her white neck in soft, smooth curls, tied coquettishly over the left ear by a bow of crisp blue ribbon. Then Dick's eyes wandered to the little hands, so white and so immaculately clean. He could not help contrasting Lulu's hands with his own, which were brown, freckled, conspicuous with warts and very much discolored by the dirt of the playground where marbles were rolled in dust an inch thick and where boys could not be particular about such matters as fingernails. However, he was anxious to keep those unkept "paws," as he called his hands, from Lulu's sight, and put them quietly inside his jacket pockets.

No sooner had his right hand sought concealment, however, than its fingers closed involuntarily over a hard little ball—a wad of paper that Dick had spent fully five minutes on that morning. Inside his cheek, between his teeth, that wad had reached perfection. It was to be used against Frank Loomis' head at the earliest opportunity. A wager had been made between Dick and Frank on Friday afternoon, Frank declaring that Dick would not dare to toss a wad on Monday morning, and Dick bravely "taking the dare."

As Dick fingered the wad lovingly he turned his eyes in the direction of Frank who at the very moment was looking at him, a smile of amusement—amusement at Dick's expense—on his face. This was too much for the poor, hapless Dick. Here was the morning half gone, and as yet he had not thought of throwing the wad. He had been so much occupied with teacher, or rather, she had been so much occupied with him, that she had not allowed him time to attend to other little matters.

But that smile on Frank's face did the work. Lulu, Teacher, everything save Frank and that neat, hard wad were for the instant forgotten. Dick raised his eyebrows, slowly winked one eye at Frank, pulled the wad from his pocket, and held it ready to throw the instant that young man should turn his face away. But he kept the wad from Frank's sight, knowing that if he should get a glimpse of it he would keep his weather eye open and dodge any missile that might cleave the air in his direction.

Only a few moments did the watchful and anticipating Dick have to wait for opportunity. Frank's inattention to his books were observed by Teacher, who pointed one long, large-jointed finger at him, not speaking a word, but saying many things with her eyes and pursed-up mouth that Frank evidently understood, for he dropped his eyes to the open page of his book and became deeply absorbed—at least, so appeared. But he had just conned the first word in his spelling lesson when, thud! something small and hard struck him right on the cheek, glancing off and taking a final lick at his nose. Teacher saw the wad flying thru the air before it hit the target, but failed to discover from whose hand it went. Yet she had her convictions. While Frank turned red, rubbed the spot on his cheek, still keeping his eyes on the book through fear of Teacher, that formidable person turned slowly about, and, with arms crossed on her breast, looked—or glared, rather—at Dick. But her gaze fell on a very studious boy, indeed. His face was low over his book and he was whispering his lesson vigorously. Teacher kept her gaze on his face for some moments, then turning her eyes to Lulu she asked: "Lulu, did you see who threw that wad that struck Frank?"

Lulu's fair face flushed. She sat quite still for a moment, then said: "Yes'm, I saw who threw it, but I hope you won't ask me to tell."

"And why do you hope I won't ask you to tell?" inquired Teacher, her tone severe.

"Because," answered Lulu, her face as pink as a rose, "I do not wish to disobey you, and I shall not tell on—on anyone. It is tattling, and I've always been taught not to tattle."

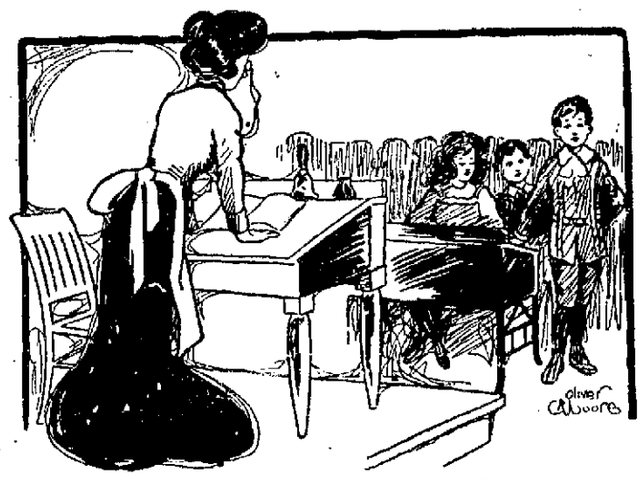
At this the whole school sat astounded, watching eagerly Teacher's face, which was really a study. That lady, much taken aback, seemed undecided what to do. She unfolded her arms to fold them again, all the time turning her eyes from Lulu to Dick. And Dick, his heart fluttering with the excitement of the moment, for he appreciated little Lulu's loyalty, and wished to appear worthy in her pretty blue eyes, pushed his book from before him, rose in his seat, and, throwing his head up proudly—for was he not about to become a hero—looked straight at Teacher and said: "I threw that wad, Teacher was so overcome by his manly confession that she dropped into her chair, her indigestion pain leaving her instantly. A new-born feeling came into her heart for Dick, and she paused before speaking a word. Then the better side of her mastered, and she said: "Dick, you may go to your own seat. I'm glad to see you are honest enough to confess to your misdeeds. You may remain in after school and write the word impertinence 50 times. Tomorrow I hope you'll come prepared to tell me you are sorry and that you have decided to turn over a new leaf."

"I'm ready now," said Dick, bravely. "I'm sorry I've been so mischievous and I'll try to do better in the future."

Then the whole school marveled. And so did Teacher, who was so overcome that she was allowed to forget her dinner of the previous day.

At noon, as Dick bashfully and awkwardly walked down the street beside Lulu, he said: "I want to thank you for being such a brick. You're all right, you are, and I—like—you, I do." Then he choked so that he could say no more, and Lulu, her face as pink as when she refused to "tattle," said: "I'm glad you like me. I don't think you're half so bad as—as—Teacher says you are."

And Dick whispered to his chums at afternoon recess: 'She's out of sight. She's the nicest girl I know, and I mean to behave myself just for her sake, so I do. She's my best girl, you know."



"I threw that wad, please ma'am."

On the Merry-go-round

"Of all the sport that's really sport,"
Spoke little Charlie Brown,
"It is to go on Saturday
To the outskirts of the town.

"Where stands a tent capacious,
Like a circus has, you know,
And all inside is a jolly crowd
On the merry-go-round. Heigh, ho!

"Where horses prance and lions roar,
And elephants, so big,
Are in the same procession
With the camel, bear and pig.

"Where for a nickel you may mount,
And gayly you may ride,
And for another nickel
Have your best girl by your side.

"Ah, but 'tis fun, the best of fun,
In all the world, I'm bound,
To spend your Saturday afternoons
In the swinging merry-go-rounds."

TIM TURNIPS.

Keep A Tidy Desk At School.

Show me a neat boy and girl and I'll show you a little gentleman and a little lady, for boys and girls who are tidy about their persons and particular about their rooms at home and desks at school show refinement of nature and home cultivation. The well-reared boy or girl needs no placard on his or her back to let you know he or she has been carefully trained, and that attention to tidiness has been one of the lessons inculcated. Therefore, boys and girls, cultivate tidiness in the schoolroom as well as in your own homes, for a great part of your time during school days is spent at your school desks, and a well-kept room and desks add to good nature and clearness of mind.

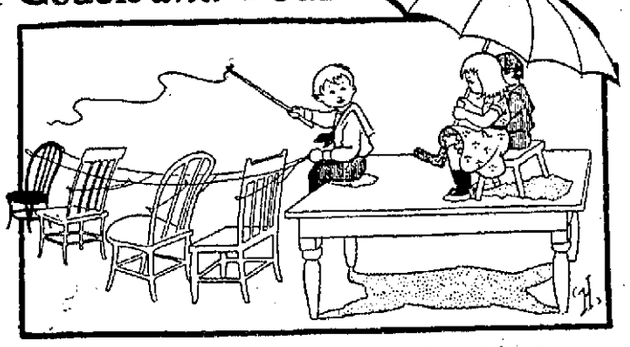
ABOUT PENS.

Pens are made by machines which seem to almost think. The steel is cut into ribbons as wide as the length of one pen, and these are fed to machines which cut out the blanks, then fashion and stamp them, split the points and place the maker's name on the back. The pens are now complete save the tempering, and this forms a separate operation. After being annealed they are counted and placed in boxes. A machine performs both of these operations.

CONUNDRUMS.

When are cavalry officers like roosters?
When wearing spurs.
Why are milkmen and night dew alike?
They are both due in the morning.
Why is a bee's nest like a bed?
Because it is laid in.
When is a lawyer like a needle?
When he has made a point.

A Coach and Four



Some children think there is no fun
To be had on a rainy day;
But from my own experience
I can't see it that way.

For, really, 'tis the greatest sport,
When the rain just pours outside,
To rig you up a coach and four,
And with your comrades ride.

As fast as steeds can take you
To gayest gay Pair-ee;
Then 'cross the English Channel
Old London Town to see.

Then when you're tired of riding,
And would no longer roam,
Drive your coach on a ferryboat,
And sail yo fast for home.

STOCKS AND BONDS.

The Day on Wall Street.

New York, Oct. 25.—Opening prices of stocks here adapted themselves to the lower level of London, resulting in fractional declines throughout. Reading and National Lead were down nearly a point and Union Pacific, Smelting, Colorado Fuel and Pressed Steel Car large fractions. The market was dull.

Buying orders were distributed freely and the initial weakness was overcome, the market recovering fully. St. Paul was again a factor in stimulating the rally, the stock moving up vigorously to 171¾. Illinois Central also went up 1¼. The market became weak again when a drive was made against the coalers and Hill stocks. Great Northern preferred fell 4, Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis 3, National Lead 2, Pressed Steel Car 1¾, Reading 1⅜ and Union Pacific, Wabash preferred, Colorado Fuel, Smelting, Locomotive, American Car preferred and Interborough Metropolitan preferred 1 to 1¼. There was a rally at the end of the hour.

Some pressure on United States Steel unsettled the rally, but it was resumed later. By midday Canadian Pacific had recovered 1¾ point decline and Reading and Great Northern preferred rallied a point. C. C. C. & St. Louis and National Railroad of Mexico preferred rose 1 and Wells Fargo 5. Northwestern fell 3. Transactions were small. Bonds were irregular.

When the market showed no inclination to respond to the spasmodic efforts to lift prices by bidding up certain stocks buying ceased and the list worked gradually backward to the lowest. The selling after midday was most effective in Union Pacific, Reading and Amalgamated Copper.

A series of slight advances and declines before 2 o'clock were without significance, the speculation being merely nominal. Pennsylvania ebbed away a point.

The market closed easy. Prices were almost immovable during the final hour. New York, Chicago & St. Louis sold at a decline of 5, Reading 3⅝ and Chicago & Alton 4½. Some stocks were bought in considerable volume in the late dealings, but the stiffening tendency did not last. Pullman rose 1½. Reading was thrown on the market in heavy volumes as the market closed.

Day's Happenings in the Industrial World

GOULD WILL BE HERE.

Is Out With a Party of Wabash Officials Inspecting Line.

George J. Gould and the higher officials of the Wabash will spend an hour or two in Fort Wayne late this afternoon. They left St. Louis on a special train last night for Decatur, Ill., where they spent several hours this morning inspecting the car shops now building there, and are now en route to Fort Wayne, where they are due about 4 o'clock. They will spend an hour or two inspecting the company's property here and will then separate and proceed on their respective ways, Mr. Gould for New York and the others for Chicago, Pittsburg or St. Louis. Besides Mr. Gould there are in the party President F. A. Delano, Vice President B. A. Worthington, General Manager Henry Miller, General Superintendent S. E. Cotter, Purchasing Agent C. A. How, Traffic Manager D. O. Ives, Supply Agent I. R. L. Wiles, General Passenger Agent C. S. Crane, Division Superintendent J. C. Sullivan, Engineer of Maintenance of Way W. S. Danes, Roadmaster A. B. Adams and others. In an interview with a newspaper representative at St. Louis, Mr. Gould thus expressed his views concerning government ownership of railways: "If the government believes it can manage our railroads better than we can," said George J. Gould in an interview last night, "and it wishes to operate them, I have no objection to selling our properties. I would sell to the government as willingly as to an individual or company, were the lines to be disposed of, though ours are good properties and not on the market now. That is how I, as a railroad man, feel in regard to public ownership of carriers.

"But as a private citizen," he continued, "I am opposed to the public ownership suggestion. The government could not manage the properties successfully. Private capital and enterprise is better equipped than the government for directing railroads.

"Public ownership or government ownership, as it is more properly called in countries having a different political organization, is not the success in Europe that some Americans believe it to be. In fact, government ownership is a failure in Europe. Italy, for example, would gladly surrender its proprietary interests and its public obligations and it is even now taking steps to turn the state lines over to private companies.

"The chief reason state ownership of railroads prevails in Europe is the necessity or desire to provide ample precautions against the possibility of war. Europe is virtually armed at all times, and it is for the purpose of being able to control the arteries of travel in the event of hostilities that governmental ownership of railroads is the general policy. From other standpoints governmental ownership of the roads is not a success.

"Prosperity reigns in all parts of the United States. Factories are busy everywhere, and the volume of trade is enormous. The railroads are rushed with traffic, and the great difficulty lies in finding power and equipment for handling freight expeditiously. The indications are the prosperity will continue indefinitely."

WILL REST FOR TEN DAYS.

Mr. Morrissey Says There Will Be Nothing Doing for Awhile.

P. H. Morrissey, who had been in Chicago several days in the interest of the switchmen who belong to the B. R. T., has returned to Cleveland and he says that the railway officials have been asked to give the representatives a hearing concerning the demands of the switchmen for increased pay within the next ten days. Mr. Morrissey does not look for any action before the expiration of that time, when something will have to be done to relieve the situation, else trouble will arise. In the demand for an eight hour work day with ten hours' pay the B. R. T. has joined the Switchmen's Union of North America, thus getting fully 90 per cent. of the switchmen of the country back of the demand for the increase. Mr. Morrissey says "the switchmen are firm in their demands and I believe the matter will be settled without a strike." The new schedule provides for three shifts in every twenty-four hours, the first from 8 a. m. to 4 p. m., the second from 4 p. m. to midnight, and the third from midnight to 8 a. m. The wage rate for the first shift is $3.10 a day for foremen, $2.80 for helpers; for the second $3.20 and $2.90; the third $3.30 and 3. Overtime pro rata.

ANOTHER WABASH LINE.

Will Build a Road Along Indian Creek to Western Maryland.

Adjustment of the dispute between the Youghiogheng and Ligonier Valley Railroad company and the Indian Creek Valley Railroad company has revealed that the Gould people are interested in a line along Indian Creek. These two companies have been fighting for rights of way along that valley for a year, and it was generally supposed the Baltimore and Ohio was back of one of the roads, while the other was to be built by independent interests to develop the timber lands.

It became public yesterday, however, that the Gould people are interested, which shows that the Wabash has won another point in the fight against the Pennsylvania. This proposed line will extend from a point on the proposed tidewater connection between Pittsburg and the western terminus of the Western Maryland.

NEW CARS FOR NICKEL PLATE.

There are now building at the Pullman car shops in Chicago, two cars for the Nickel Plate road which, when completed, will be a decidedly new departure in the way of passenger service. The new cars will be 72 feet long and are a combination of dining and parlor cars, containing kitchen, a dining room seating eighteen people, ladies' retiring room, smoking compartment, and an observation compartment in the rear. The new cars are intended for day use only and will be used on trains No. 5 east bound and No. 6 west bound, between Bellevue and Buffalo. The cars will be under the jurisdiction of the Pullman company, but the Nickel Plate will handle the dining department. The extra fare to be charged on these cars will be considerably less than the regular Pullman fare.

DONALD'S NEW POSITION.

Will Succeed A. J. Smith on the Lake Shore Road.

That the Central passenger association will soon be a thing of the past is further indicated by a report circulated yesterday that Commissioner F. C. Donald is to be made general passenger agent of the Lake Shore to succeed A. J. Smith. The report that Mr. Donald will leave the association, the fact that the meeting scheduled for last Tuesday, which has been postponed indefinitely, that the present form of mileage ticket has been abolished and that an interchangeable mileage book will be placed on sale next Wednesday indicate that the association will be abandoned in the near future. Passenger men claim the railroads would not be justified in maintaining that body, since it has been rendered practically useless as a result of the independent action of certain lines.

WRECK AT CROSSING.

The semi-weekly wreck at the crossing of the Pennsylvania and Wabash tracks at Hanna street, which occurred at 7:39 o'clock this morning, was the worst in several months. Two cars were derailed and one of them, which was loaded with merchandise, was thrown on its side on the Pennsylvania tracks. The other car simply had its front trucks diverted up the Pennsylvania tracks. This car was loaded with iron. The derailed cars were part of the Findlay local train. The wreck completely blocked the Wabash tracks and blocked all but one of the Pennsylvania tracks.

DO NOT EXPECT TROUBLE.

(Pittsburg Post.)

Railroad officials in the Pittsburg district are not alarmed by reports that members of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen will strike provided an eight-hour day is not established. They admit that executive officials of various lines are considering the demands of the trainmen, although no arrangements have been made for a conference. The present wage scale will not expire until March 31 of next year. In the printed circular presented to the railroad men no reference is made to a strike.

NICKEL PLATE IMPROVEMENTS

The work of double tracking the Nickel Plate between Bellevue and Colby is being rapidly pushed to completion, several new work trains having been recently put in commission. A new office has been opened at Sand Pit hill to handle the work trains and an operator will be sent from here to take charge. Sand Pit hill is three miles west of Bellevue and there is a considerable grade at that point which will be cut down.

NEW EMPLOYES AT SHOPS.

General Foreman Gus Grosh, at the Wabash shops, took on some new men this morning and is still looking for good men. Among the new employes assigned duties this morning are Machinist J. Alter, recently from the Western Gas works; Machinist E. B. Gerhard, recently from Reading, Pa., and Wilber Wade, a machinist helper. Mr. Wade worked at the Wabash shops once before.

LANDMAN IS PROMOTED.

Notice was received in this city today of the appointment of L. W. Landman to the position of general western passenger agent of the Lake Shore with headquarters in Chicago, vice L. F. Vosburg resigned to go to the New York Central and Hudson River road. Mr. Landman has been general agent of the passenger department at Toledo, and the name of his successor could not be learned.

ENGINES FOR NEW GOULD LINE.

New engines from the eastern locomotive works are now going to the Western Pacific, the Gould line which is now building from Colorado to the Pacific coast. Two of the engines from that line occupied a piece of track near the shops in this city for several hours today. Forty miles of the new road is now in operation.

FINGER CRUSHED OFF.

R. Bower, who is employed in the type C meter room at the Electric works, had the end of the index finger of his left hand pinched off by the punch he was operating yesterday afternoon. He will be unable to work for some days on account of the accident.

NEW FREIGHT HANDLERS.

New truckmen at the Lake Shore freight house are: G. L. Laurent, H. Sams, G. Stewart and L. R. Mingus. They have been hired to take the places of the men who resigned when their petition for an increase in wages was denied.

C., H. & D. CUTS RATES.

Indianapolis, Oct. 25.—The Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton Railroad company today announced that beginning November 1 a straight fare of 2½ cents per mile would be charged in Indiana.

WILL NOT ISSUE NEW MILEAGE.

The Pennsylvania has notified the Central Passenger association that it will not issue the "good for bearer" mileage book November 1, as previously announced. The reason assigned is that the Erie railroad has withdrawn its "good for bearer" tickets.

WILL MOVE TO SEATTLE.

Edward D. Miller, a car builder, who resigned a position at the Pennsylvania shops yesterday, will go to Seattle, Wash., in a few days to work at his trade. He was employed at the Pennsylvania shops over a year.

George Killen's orchestra will furnish the music for the entertainment given by the Pocahontas lodge Saturday evening. The members of the orchestra are Pennsylvania shopmen.

G. J. Feltus, H. E. Wyatt and F. Kress, who have been on the extra brakeman list on the Nickel Plate here, have been transferred to the Bellevue division to work on the new work train.

Frank Snyder, an erecting engineer for the Fort Wayne Foundry and Machine company, has gone to Delphos, Ind., to superintend the erection of an engine and producer which this firm recently sold to the Delphos Can company.

H. Slucox, an employe of the Wabash shops, had a finger crushed yesterday by a large piece of side sheeting falling upon his hand. Dr. Kaadt, the company's surgeon, dressed the wound and says that the digit will be saved.

In addition to prizes awarded the supervisors of the Pennsylvania lines having the best kept track, Supervisor T. Garretson, of the Louisville division, and T. McNamara, of the Indianapolis division, have been complimented on the condition of their respective divisions.
